RED FRONT ON BALTIC CRACKS

First Action In Nazi-Red Clash—Ribbentrop Announces War

According to the official German caption accompanying the photo at the left, which was flashed by radio from Berlin to New York, it shows a German machine gun crew in position on the eastern frontier as the Nazi army invaded Russia. This is the first military picture to reach the United States following outbreak of hostilities. Also flashed by radio from Berlin to New York, photo at right shows Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop (center) as he announced to the press that Hitler was at war with Russia.

Berlin Reports Lithuanians Forming Government to Aid Nazis; Estonia, Latvia Expected to Get in Line While Russians Fall Back.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(UP)—Germany's armed forces, striking eastward in blitzkrieg style, were reported by the official Nazi news agency today to have made extensive gains in Soviet Russia, opening the way for an imminent clash with the main strength of the Red army.

BULLETIN

MOSCOW — (INS) — Soviet Russia today called up 5,000,000 additional men to stem the sudden German invasion of the U. S. S. R. as an augmented communique dealing with yesterday's operations said the Nazi panzer divisions had been repulsed "with heavy losses."

(By Associated Press)

The Baltic bulwark which Soviet Russia erected by threats and persuasion against the possibility of just such an attack by Germany as is now raging along her western frontier appeared today to be crumbling.

Combined military and political blows within and without the three little states—Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia—which the U. S. S. R. took into camp and started fortifying a year ago, threatened to line them up with Adolf Hitler.

According to Berlin advices, based in turn on broadcasts from the Kaunas radio, Lithuanians have risen up, forming a new government pledged to help Germany fight Russia.

An effort to cut Latvia also out of the Russian camp was indicated when the German radio broadcast a declaration by a Latvian "government-in-exile" that Latvia, too, would fight alongside Germany presumably when and if Russian rule could be cast off.

Helsinki reports said that Estonia, farthest removed of the three from the German-Russian battle line, was expected to follow suit. Baltic political refugees, themselves anti-Russian, said Russia had expected revolts in the three states.

Finland, who lost territory to Russia by war, declared, at the same time, that she would maintain neutrality as long as possible—this despite Adolf Hitler's classification of her as his ally.

In Washington Warren Lee Pierson, president of the Export-Import bank, said transfers already had been stopped

Russian Attack Spurs U. S. Arms Effort

Congress Split On Soviet Aid

State Department Awaits Clarification Of Situation as Washington Watches For Hint of Japanese Position.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Germany's lightning-like invasion of Soviet Russia promised today to produce an intensification of the United States arms production effort both for national defense and for lease-lend aid to Britain.

Whether the lease-lend program would be extended to include Russia was still a moot question, but some legislators on Capitol Hill already were urging that this country espouse the policy voiced by Winston Churchill yesterday for Britain—"any man or state who fights against Nazidom will have our aid."

The bombshell invasion of Russia caught the capital unaware and the disposition of the state department was to await a clarification of the situation before making any formal statement.

What position Japan would take in the sharply altered world situation was one subject of considerable interest. As a member of the Axis, Japan is bound to give military support to Italy or Germany in the event of "aggression" against them, it was pointed out, and Germany claims her invasion of Russia was in self defense.

On the other hand, the Russo-Japanese "neutrality" pact of April, 1941, stipulates that if one signatory "becomes the object of attack," the other will maintain neutrality—and Russia contends that the Soviet is the victim of an unjustified invasion.

While stock-taking of the international scene proceeded, the be-

PRICES SOAR

New Nazi Blitz Produces Wave of Buying In Grain Pits.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Outbreak of the war between Germany and Russia produced a wave of buying in the grain futures pits today and prices of all commodities soared.

Wheat rose 3 to 4 cents a bushel at the opening bell, July contracts selling above $1.04 and December futures as high as $1.09. These were the highest prices posted here in more than a year and within only a few cents of what's topmost level for the past four years.

Corn rose as much as 3 cents in some cases to 75 for July delivery and above 80 cents for December. Prices unequaled here since 1937.

BRITISH BACK CHURCHILL TALK

Favor Aid To Russia In War Against Nazis But Doubt Strength of Reds.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Britain steadfastly cheered today her prime minister's determination to help Soviet Russia fight Germany, but shied at placing too much reliance on the Soviet as a potent brother in arms.

Prime Minister Churchill's ringing declaration yesterday that "we shall give whatever help" we can to Russia and the Russian people" and "any man or state who fights Nazism will have our aid" were seconded warmly by London newspapers.

They advocated a burial of ideological differences between Britain and Communist for the common purpose of crushing Adolf Hitler.

"Russia need have no fear that we shall weaken in our resolve

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Funeral services were scheduled tomorrow for Paul Block, 63, newspaper publisher and head of an advertising representatives firm, who died yesterday after an illness of several months.

Block was president of Paul Block and Associates and publisher of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, the Toledo Blade and the Toledo Times.

HOW DEFENSE AFFECTS YOU

Maybe You Can Get an Auto Next Year, But Probably Not Best Style Suit.

(Editor's Note: The following is the first of a series of four articles on the effects of the national defense program on the man in the street. Defense officials declare that the American public will have to make many sacrifices.)

By JACK VINCENT
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—Will you be able to buy an automobile next year?

Maybe.

Or a new suit?

Probably not in the style you want

Or a new set of tires for that old jalope?

They are liable to be scarce.

Or aluminum ware for the kitchen?

The answer is definitely, no.

Or copper plumbing for your new home?

Again the answer is, no.

Or a galvanized fence for the yard?

No.

Or a new radio?

The number of models will be limited.

Or a camera?

They may be scarce.

And there also may be a lot of other "no's."

Defense officials predict that

OKAY JUSTICE

Senate Confirms Nomination of Stone to Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The senate judiciary committee today voted unanimously to recommend confirmation of the namination of Justice Harlan Fiske as chief justice of the supreme court.

A subcommittee considering nomination of Tity. Gen. Robert H. Jackson as associate justice announced a further hearing next Friday when Senator Tydings (D., Md.) will appear.

Tydings, it is understood, will make a vigorous protest against confirmation of Jackson.

Body Of Pat Harrison Lies In State In Senate Chamber

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The body of the late Senator Pat Harrison, D., Miss., president pro tempore of the senate and chairman of the finance committee, laid in state today in the chamber where he served his nation for the past 23 years.

The 59-year-old statesman died here yesterday of exhaustion following a major intestinal operation performed a week ago.

Harrison had been in congress 30 years. He had been a member of the house of representatives for seven years when he won election to the senate in 1918.

His body will be sent to Gulfport, Miss., early Tuesday for burial Wednesday following services at the Methodist church.

Harrison was the second president pro tempore of the senate to die within a year. His immediate predecessor, Chairman Key Pittman, D., Nev., of the senate foreign relations committee, died last winter of a heart attack.

Lights Match Near Gas Leak, Then Makes Another Mistake

A Mansfield resident was nursing a bad case of burns today because of two mistakes.

His first was in lighting a cigaret near a leaky gas pipe and the second was in thinking that liquor would relieve the pain.

Standing with a group of persons investigating a leak near a gas meter at the Frank Miller tavern at 157 Elm street, Saturday night, the Mansfield man decided he needed a smoke.

As he held the lighted match to the cigaret, gas from the pipe exploded, enveloping his face in flames. He suffered second-degree burns on the hands and wrists and about the mouth and nose.

Following treatment at General hospital, the Mansfield man, whom friends say is ordinarily "not a drinking man," got a bottle of liquor with the fond hope of killing the pain from his burns.

He went to his rooming house and began drinkink. After consuming a good portion of the bottle with effects other than relief from pain, he decided that he wanted to go out again. When fellow-roomers attempted to dissuade, he became angry and tore the bandages off his burns.

Finally, because they feared he would injure himself, his friends called Mansfield police who arrested him on an intoxication charge. Police saw that his burns were rebandaged.

Released yesterday, he forfeited $11 30 bond this morning by failing to appear in municipal court to face the intoxication charge.

CLOSE BORDERS

U. S. Officials Seek To Halt Italians Leaving Nation.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The federal government acted today to halt the departure of Italian nationals from the United States.

The action duplicated steps taken against the Germans in the country June 18.

The justice department announced it had issued instructions to immigration and border patrol officers to take all necessary steps to prevent any Italian national from leaving the country, pending further instructions.

The department said it understood the treasury issued similar instructions to customs officers.

O. K. CONTRACT

CIO Workers Ratify Agreement With Ford Motor Company.

DETROIT—(U.P.)—The rank and file of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) yesterday ratified its contract with the Ford Motor company by a fire to one vote for the first union contract in Ford history.

The contract, signed by company and union representatives in Washington Friday, grants the first union shop and check-off of union dues in a major automobile manufacturing company. It covers an estimated 130,000 workers in the main River Rouge plant and in branches across the country.

GIRL, 7, KILLED SOUTH OF CITY

Youngster Struck By Auto as She Runs Across Road Near Johnsville.

Pauline Gerhart, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gerhart, Bellville, R. D. 2, was killed almost instantly at 10:30 a. m. today when she was struck by an auto driven by Linda A. Hall, Fredericktown, R. D. 3, about 13 miles south of Mansfield on U. S. route 42, near Johnsville.

Six other persons were injured, four of them soldiers returning from furlough, in accidents in the Mansfield area over the week-end. At least 14 persons were killed in Ohio.

The Gerhart child had been in a strawberry patch with her grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Leedy, and suddenly ran across the road. Mrs. Hall told state highway patrolmen that a large straw hat worn by the girl probably prevented her from seeing the auto.

The Fredericktown woman told the patrolmen that she was going about 30 miles an hour when the child ran in front of the car.

County Coroner L. B. McCullough said the girl suffered a broken neck and leg and was dead upon arrival at General hospital. Carl F. Dick, Columbus, a passing motorist, picked the girl up and brought her to the hospital with Mrs. Hall.

The army men were hurt, one seriously, when their car collided with another which was trying to pass a truck on U. S. route 42, about eight miles north of Ashland today at 4:30 a. m.

A Mansfield woman was injured but her granddaughter, only three months old, escaped when the car in which they were riding left U. S. route 42 about two miles south of the city and overturned in a field.

Louis M. Boggia, Youngstown, driver of the auto which collided with the army's car, is in the Samaritan hospital in Ashland with a skull fracture, crushed ribs and possible internal injuries.

Face Court Today To Enter Pleas On Indictments

Defendants indicted last Thursday by the Richland county grand jury were scheduled for arraignment this afternoon before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, but warrants for the arrest of several persons on secret indictments still had not been served at noon today, county authorities said.

Prosecutor Harold Lutz, who is holding the secret indictments, said he had asked police and deputy sheriffs to be on the lookout for "certain persons" and added that he would order the warrants served after the defendants are located. Last week he said "there is no hurry" about serving the indictments.

While some of the persons named secretly by the grand jury are believed involved in the Bellville morals case, their identity will not be revealed until they are taken into custody by the sheriff or police, Lutz said.

BERLIN: Germans Say Panzer Units Smash Fortifications

(By International News Service)

BERLIN — With Soviet forces surrendering or in wild retreat, German panzer divisions smashed deep into heavily fortified zones across the Russian frontier today, according to information released by the Nazi high command today.

While the vital fortified city of Brest-Litovsk in former Polish territory was heavily bombarded by land and air, crack German mechanized divisions, rolled through concrete defenses, pillboxes and Soviet tank lines, the high command asserted.

German troops discovered in the first few hours of fighting, it was said, that Russian light tanks are of poor quality and easily shattered by armor-piercing bullets. The crews of most of them were killed instantly, military information said.

One regimental commander advised Berlin that his troops advanced ten miles into Soviet territory during the first four hours of fighting. Russian troops opposing the Germans were said to have surrendered or fled in disorder.

After initial hand to hand encounters, it was said, the Soviets gave it up as a bad job and retreated without even blowing up vital bridges.

Tension in the Reich that had prevailed since Hitler's announcement of hostilities lessened perceptibly in the absence of massed Soviet air attacks which had been

MOSCOW: Reds Claim Nazis Thrown Back With Big Losses

(By United Press)

MOSCOW — Russia's first war communique said today that the bulk of attacking German forces had been thrown back with heavy losses after fierce fighting, and that only in two regions, in Poland below Lithuania, had the Germans made slight gains.

It was asserted that 65 German airplanes had been shot down in the first day of fighting.

German planes attacked many Russian cities, towns and airdromes, it was said, but were driven off everywhere by Russian airplanes and anti-aircraft guns.

Russia's military machine swung into operation swiftly and smoothly. The supreme Soviet decreed a state of general mobilization in the 15 most important military districts fronting Finland, Poland, Germany and Rumania, including the districts of Leningrad, Moscow, the Ukraine, White Russia, Archangel, in the Arctic; central Russia and the northern Caucasus.

Fourteen military classes — men born in the years 1905 to 1918 inclusive — were called to join the formidable army already under arms. Military tribunals were set up in mobilization areas to take over administration of all law and justice.

Martial law obtained in the main northern, western, central and southern cities and districts; and the military tribunals were given wide powers.

Military authorities were empowered to mobolize labor, take

Mansfield's 'Safety Town' Under Study In Cleveland

Possibility that Cleveland may adopt Mansfield's "Safety Town" program for use in city playgrounds is being investigated by its public affairs committee, Patrolman Frend C. Boals, originator of the plan, announced today.

Boals said that he had been contacted by Mrs. Marie H. Fry, secretary of the committee, and asked to arrange an explanatory program here in Mansfield on July 24.

Approximately 60 members of the committee accompanied by Cleveland's safety director, Eliot Hess, and other city officials, are expected to visit Mansfield to study the safety-teaching program for children.

Tentative plans call for a luncheon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel with Boals presiding. Boals will appoint a citizen's committee here to help make arrangements for the luncheon and program.

Mrs. Fry told Boals that the group will make the trip to Mansfield in an automobile caravan starting from Cleveland at about 10 a. m.

Tiny autos and traffic signals on streets in a miniature village are used to impress children with the rules of safety. This will be the fifth year that the program has been maintained in city playgrounds.

Soviet Baltic Front Reported Crumbling

Berlin Says Lithuania, Estonia And Latvia to Come to Hitler Aid; Germans Claim Advances.

on the bank's $35,000,000 credits to Finland, but he declined to tie this in with the war.

Lithuania's declaration of independence came as German land forces, now at least 10 miles inside Russian territory, and the air force pounded Russian bases and communications in a tide destruction which the German high command announced was proceeding "on schedule and successfully."

From Kaunas, Lithuania, capital of a little republic fronting on Germany which Russia absorbed last June, this announcement was broadcast:

"The Lithuanian people, with all the means at their disposal, will fight for freedom and independence."

The Kaunas radio apparently already was in the hands of a coup government.

Rearguard attacks on Russian troop emplacements and communications in Lithuania were presaged by an appeal of the new regime to the people to take up arms "in order to assist the German army in liberating Lithuania from the Bolshevik occupants" and to receive the Germans with open arms.

Kazys Skirpa, former Lithuanian minister to Berlin, became premier of the new government, according to the Kaunas radio, and General Styasys Rastikis, former defense minister, has taken up his old post.

The coup was credited to the "front of Lithuanian activists."

Russia acknowledged a 10-mile German penetration of Lithuania from East Prussia. It was likely that the Russians deliberately abandoned their new fortifications in the Baltic region. Poland and Bessarabia and northern Bucovina, fighting a delaying action until a stand could be made on the primary fortifications along the old Russian frontier.

Russia pushed her border into Poland in a partitioning with Germany at the start of the war and incorporated the states of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia and the Rumanian territory of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina about a year ago.

Whether Russia would withdraw from bases and territory which she wrested in her war with Finland and which guard the land and sea approaches to Leningrad remained to be seen, but the Finnish government's statement of neutrality followed upon a denial that German forces were using Finnish bases.

The Finns said, however, that Soviet bombers had struck swiftly at their ports and shipping a few hours after Adolf Hitler started his dawn offensive against the U. S. S. R. Helsinki had a 25-minute air alarm this morning and Turku a 50-minute alarm, but no bombs fell.

The conflict ranged from continued maneuvers for positions in the far north where, in Finland, the 2,000-mile front touches the Arctic sea, to the fierce encounter of men and machines, aloft and aground, in the central and southern sectors.

The German high command announced favorable progress by the German land and air forces while in the eastern Baltic German torpedoboats penetrated Russian coastal waters, sinking a patrol boat and four small merchant ships.

The clash of the military titans who now have cast aside their pretense of friendship and nonaggression brought in its train a series of hurried conferences in world capitals, for policies had to be confirmed or rectified in the light of the great engagement.

Russian ambassadors to London and Vichy conferred with the United States enjoys John G. Winant and Admiral William D. Leahy, U. S. envoys in those capitals. Following Winant's talk with Ivan Maisky, the Russian ambassador, called on Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary.

In Tokyo, Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye conferred with Emperor Hirohito and, without explanation, a special liaison conference of Japanese cabinet and military leaders was postponed, for a second time, until late today or tomorrow.

Japan is bound by the three-power Axis pact to go to the assistance of either Germany or Italy in event of "attack" by a new belligerent in the world's wars. Whether Russia attacked Germany—as Adolf Hitler charged and Vyacheslav Molotoff denied—was up for decision in Tokyo.

Japan also is bound to remain neutral in a fight involving Russia. This is in a Moscow-Tokyo pact, signed while Hitler still was trying to work Russia into the Axis-planned new world order.

Nevertheless Far Eastern observers keenly watched Japan for signs that she might try to seize eastern Siberia while Russia battles for her life in the west.

War claims and reports apart from the unprecedented struggles in progress from the Arctic to the Black Sea included:

1. Sinking of nine British merchantmen—a total of 37,500 tons—in recent German air and submarine operations on the Atlantic.

2. A night attack by strong formations of German bombers on Britain's big Mediterranean fleet base at Alexandria.

3. Fiery RAF raids for a 12th successive night on Germany, this time centering on the port of Bremen and the naval base of Wilhelmshaven, but also hitting Emden, Bremerhaven and Dusseldorf and overnight German raids on northern Scottish ports and English airfields.

4. A resumption of daylight raids on German occupied France. Fights on Sunday claimed a bag of 30 German planes in a sweep of the channel and occupied France.

5. A British interception of the 4,422-ton German supply ship Babitonga; an admiralty communique said that the old time passenger-cargo vessel, disguised as a Dutch merchant ship, was heading for Brest, France, when she was overtaken. Presumably she was taken as a prize of war.

6. Axis air attacks in North Africa on British supplies, positions and encampments, accompanied by air fighting over Malto and the Central Mediterranean and a British raid on Bengasi, Libya.

7. Penetration of Central Syria by two desert-going British armored columns. They were near Palmyra, 130 miles north of Damascus, the Syrian capital which now is in British and Free French hands.

8. Japanese bombardment of vast areas of west and northwest China over the week-end.

Driving toward Kaunas, capital of Sovietized Lithuania, the Germans took Kalvaria just inside the border of old Lithuania, the Russians admitted. Toward Grodno in the northeastern part of former Poland they occupied the village of Tsekmanovets. In a thrust toward Kirkstinopol in southern Poland the Germans made a gain of only six miles and captured the village of Stoyanuv, Moscow said.

The Red army high command, in its first communique telling of this great new war which Germany sprang yesterday on her non-aggression pact friend of less than two years' standing, said these gains were insignificant and made at great cost to the Germans.

Perhaps 5,000,000 troops were engaged in the struggle.

German air raids on the Russian Black Sea naval base of Sevastopol; on Kiev, capital of the rich Ukrainian wheat region which is the vast area Adolf Hitler hopes to seize, and on other Russian cities, rolled up great casualty lists.

The Russians said 65 Nazi raiders were shot down. The Germans reported Russian raids on East Prussia.

Little Finland, exhausted by the 1939-40 war with Russia, obviously was being propelled into another fight with her powerful neighbor.

Finland, which lost valuable land to Russia in the recent war, called up all available manpower, instituted blackouts, readied her air-raid shelters, and prepared to resist any Russian attack.

Dispatches to Finnish newspapers from Berlin said great clouds of smoke were rising from burning villages, oil stores and ammunition dumps along the Soviet frontier as the Russian army withdrew to other positions.

Turkey announced herself as neutral.

French military circles in Vichy were informed that the main German stab was directed toward reaching Kharkov in the eastern part of the Ukraine. The rich Caucuasus oil fields are southeast of the Ukraine.

The German drive into the Baltic states suggested that one spearhead was aimed at the great Russian naval base of Leningrad, with a march on Moscow also a possibility once that could be attained.

This great new conflict overshadowed developments on the other military fronts.

The latter highlights were:

British troops after occupying the Syrian capital of Damascus reported further local successes against the French defenders.

French forces claimed the recapture of Abou Kemal, a town near the Iraq border.

British bombers attacked western Germany for the 12th successive night last night after a previous assault on Nazi invasion bases in France during which 30 German planes were claimed destroyed in aerial duels.

German bombers made only scattered attacks on Britain during the night and casualties and damage were said to be slight.

One Hurt, Five Escape As Car Upsets

A Mansfield woman suffered cuts and bruises about the head and legs yesterday when the above car left U. S. Route 42, two miles south of the city, but five companions including her three-months-old granddaughter escaped injury. Mrs. C. O. Hall of 26 Prospect street, was injured when her son, Sam Hall, 19, of 297 Beymiller street, lost control of the car which overturned in a field.

Finns Protest Red Fleet Bombings

HELSINKI—(U.P.)—Finland today lodged a formal protest with Soviet Russia against the bombing of Finnish objectives by the Russian air fleet.

The protest was submitted to the Russian Minister M. Orlov who promised to transmit the Finnish note to the Soviet government.

The Finns demanded that the Soviet explain why Russian planes had carried out bombing attacks in Finland.

Orlov said earlier that Russian-Finnish relations remain friendly but warned that if Finland attacked Russia or allowed her territory to be used as a base of aggression, Russia would strike back.

Japs Confer on Red, Nazi Development

TOKYO—(INS)—Leaders of the Japanese government and fighting services rushed to urgent new conferences today as public opinion in Tokyo shook under the impact of the German attack on Soviet Russia.

What was described as a "liaison conference" between the government and high command was held. Highest officials of the nation—civil and military—discussed what an official announcement termed "important questions confronting Japan."

Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye was received beforehand by Emperor Hirohito and reported to the latter on "domestic and international affairs."

Sir Robert Craigie, British ambassador to Tokyo, lost no time in calling on the foreign office. He talked with the vice minister of foreign affairs, exchanging information regarding the Russo-German hostilities.

Tokyo hummed with activity. But a government spokesman said Japanese action — or inaction — would not be decided upon probably for two weeks.

Defense Probably Will Hit You Harder Than You Think the impact of the national defense program on the man on the street in America is going to be much more severe than the public thinks.

When the defense program started a year ago, a $4,800,000,000 plan was mapped out. Later it was stepped up from time to time until $41,800,000,000 has been either appropriated or authorized for defense. Now, OPM officials are talking in terms of from $80,000,000,000 to $100,000,000,000.

OPM Director William S. Knudsen says that a second defense program is now being formed. He believes it will call for a "quite substantial sum."

When the defense program hits its peak, according to the OPM, American industry will be producing about $3,000,000,000 worth of planes, tanks, guns and other war materials a month. This means that productive facilities will have to be diverted from civilian goods.

Shortages are bound to occur. In what items?

"You can just about write your own ticket," according to one defense official.

This official pointed out that steel, rubber, synthetic rubber, aluminum, magnesium, ferro tungsten, nickel, borax and boric acid, cork, copper, zinc, lead, chromium, mercury, tin, and many other items are either under strict priority or inventory control.

"You can just look around you and see the articles in which those materials are used, such as metal furniture," the OPM executive said. "Then you'll know where shortages are likely to occur."

If you don't know what some of the materials are in the manufacture of civilian goods, you can take ferro tungsten as an example. Look at your radio tubes and electric light bulbs. Ferro Tungsten is used in making the filaments.

The automobile is causing the greatest study by defense officials, because of the nation's 27,500,000 motorists and the number of persons dependent on the vehicle for a livelihood in some manner or other. OPM already has ordered a 20 per cent reduction in the auto output for the new model year. This means a cut from a proposed 5,385,000 to 4,200,000 units. But that is only an initial cut. There will be others later because steel plate is needed for ships, tanks and freight cars. How much of a reduction no one can forecast. It depends on the amount of strategic materials that the government can allocate to the auto industry.

Knudsen, former head of General Motors before he became OPM director, frankly says:

"I don't know how many (autos) we are going to make because it depends entirely on the critical materials. If we can't get nickel—we can't make automobiles without nickel—then we don't make mobiles.)

SENATE GETS SEIZURE BILL

New Proposal With Restricting Powers Goes To Committee.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—A substitute bill greatly restricting proposed powers to President Roosevelt to commandeer real or personal property during the present emergency, was placed before the senate military affairs committee today by Acting Secretary of War Patterson.

The new measure restricts the use of the draft powers to industrial tools, equipment and facilities, necessary to national defense. The original measure would give the president authority to draft any kind of property, real or personal in the name of the broad term of "national defense."

The substitute bill, defining in general terms the kind of property that can be drafted, was voluntarily proposed to the committee by Patterson.

The acting secretary of war added that the new measure is designed principally to break the bottleneck in the machine tool industry.

DIVIDES FUNDS

Registrar Reports Distribution of $3,000,000 in Ohio.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A second distribution of automobile license revenue funds to political subdivisions totaling $3,331,836 was reported today by C. W. Wallace, state registrar of motor vehicles.

The year's initial distribution totaled $9,941,378.

BOMB BEIRUT

RAF Reports Sinking of French Destroyer In Harbor.

CAIRO—(UP)—The Royal Air Force reported today that British bombers carried out a heavy attack upon the harbor at Beirut, Syria, and were believed to have hit and sunk a French destroyer.

The RAF reported that a merchant ship was also hit and set afire at its mooring along side the northern mole.

BLUE ARMY MARCHES TO BATTLE REDS IN LOUISIANA WAR GAMES

LEESVILLE, La.—(U.P.)—A Blue army of approximately 65,000 soldiers of the fifth army corps marched westward today to defend the cut-over land of west-central Louisiana from a Red army invasion.

Many simulated divisions of Reds with heavy theoretical support of combat aircraft crossed the Sabine river, Louisiana-Texas boundary, to signal the start of the invasion.

The two-day mock war came at the end of command post exercises in the Leesville area and inaugurated unit combat training of the fifth army corps as part of the third army under the direction of Lieut.-Gen. Walter Kreuger.

The defending Blues were composed mostly of the 32nd division from Michigan and Wisconsin and the 37th division of Ohio. The 32nd was commanded by Maj. Gen. Irving A. Fish and the 37th by Maj.-Gen. Robert S. Beightler. The defenders also included the attached 46th and 73rd field artillery brigades and smaller army and corps units.

After tomorrow's battles, the Red and Blue armies will rest for one day before resuming the mock war for another two-day period.

anticipated. Soviet officials, a spokesman said, had been "cocksure" in their predictions that the Red air force would raze the chief cities of Germany in the first 24 hours of combat, particularly Berlin.

The poor showing by Soviet war planes in East Prussia and Poland also was cited as an indication that the Russian air force is no match for the Luftwaffe.

German officials described the attack on Brest-Litovsk as the fiercest in the history of warfare.

In the first 36 hours of fighting, the high command announced, the German blitzkrieg against the might of Red Russia developed "according to plan."

The initial German land and air blows were declared to have "hit the Reds in vital spots," as the German forces launched a vast scale attack by aerial pounding and artillery fire.

Already, authorities said, the German operations began to unfold as a systematic and manifold drive against Moscow.

Brest-Litovsk, situated east of the Bug river in former Polish territory, took a pounding such as never has been witnessed in previous wars.

This historic city, scene of the signing of the treaty that signalized Germany's World war victory over Russia in 1917, has for centuries been noted as one of the mightiest military key points in eastern Europe.

But today, German authorities said, Brest-Litovsk was being rocked and its defenders were left "dazed" under the fiery blizzard that exploded upon it.

Already one of the main defense ports at Brest-Litovsk has surrendered under the crushing weight of the German onslaught.

German authorities said the fort was taken under cover of darkness when German infantry, supported by rapidly moving light artillery guns, burst over the ramparts with fixed bayonets, hurling a rain of hand grenades as they charged.

In scarcely more than a few minutes, German officials said, the infantrymen captured the "stupified Russian defenders, who were trembling like aspen leaves from the effects of the bombardment."

Whether the formidable and complex system of the Brest-Litovsk forts can long withstand the terrific German attack was a question that appeared extremely doubtful to German authorities.

They said that the fall of Brest-Litovsk would rip a "fatal breach" in the Red army front.

Meanwhile, it was evident to eye-witnesses of the German attack that Hitler's blitz troops are staking everything on a plan to paralyze the Red army quickly before being drawn too far inside the vast spaces of the USSR.

HEAR MAYOR

Ontario Residents Addressed By Cleveland Executive.

Democracy to be preserved must maintain the qualities upon which early Americans built the republic, Mayor Edwin Blythin, of Cleveland said in a talk last night at the Ontario Community church.

Tracing briefly the development of American ideals, Blythin pointed out that the early Americans developed a strong sense of independence; that they were a courageous, law-abiding and religious people.

Democracy is in danger when those ideals are endangered, Blythin said.

Approximately 50 persons attended the meeting at the church. Blythin visited the Ontario church as a guest of Rev. E H. Thompson, pastor.

Lexington Youngster Suffers Brain Concussion In Mishap.

Five-year-old William Mertler, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mertler, Lexington R. D. 1, suffered a brain concussion when he fell while playing in a barn yesterday afternoon.

Hospital reports show the child fell from a barn ladder approximately 10 feet, landing on the floor.

He was taken to Mansfield General hospital where nurses reported his condition as good today.

TAKES VACATION

See Danger of War Lessened As Hull Leaves Washington.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today planned to leave Washington for a brief vacation in White Sulphur Springs, to recuperate from the cold and fatigue which has kept him away from the state department for the past two weeks.

The fact that Hull has decided that he can leave Washington for a week or two lent credence to the belief which prevails in official quarters that the Russo-German clash diminishes the chances of this country becoming involved in the war in the near future.

BLACKOUT HITS GALION TRADE AREA SATURDAY

Merchants Resort To Candles To Furnish Light When City Power Fails.

GALION—Back to the days of candles and oil lamps went merchants Saturday night.

An entire business block was submerged in darkness when twisted wires put out a transformer fuse. The lights went out in all of the stores and buildings on the north side of Harding Way West between the square and Boston street, shortly before 9 p. m.

Not quite time to close stores to the Saturday night trade, merchants quickly resorted to candles and oil lamps.

City electricians were put to work immediately, and lights were on in about an hour.

over public and private property, regulate working hours in all enterprises and regulate trade, business and public utilities.

Foreign Minister Viacheslav Molotov announced to the nation by radio that Germany had attacked Russia by land and air at 4 a. m. Sunday (9 p. m. Saturday Edt.)

The attack came after a four weeks war of nerves.

It was not until 90 minutes after Germany had attacked that the German ambassador, County Wernor Von Der Schulenberg announced to Molotov Germany's decision to attack.

By that time the Germans already had bombed the cities of Zhitomir and Kiev, in the Ukraine; Kaunas, capital of Lithuania, and Sebastopol in the Crimea, killing or wounding more than 200 persons.

Molotov, in his address in behalf of Premier Josef Stalin, urged the people to unite for defense of Russia and to 'repulse the bandit attack of the Fascist rulers."

It was the first use of the word Fascist, in a derogatory sense, since the conclusion of the Russo-German 10-year pact of friendship in August, 1939.

Molotov said Russia had no quarrel with "the suffering German people, workers and intellectuals," but was at war with the same Nazi clique which had "enslaved" at least nine other nations.

He disclosed that the army had received full orders and powers to perform its duty and "to crush the enemy decisively."

Municipal and national authorities took all precautions to minimize the danger from airplane attack.

Policemen wore gas masks last night as they checked up on the complete blackout of Moscow and other cities.

ATTEND WEDDING OF PHYSICIAN

BUCYRUS—A group of Bucyrians attended the wedding in Fremont Saturday afternoon of Miss Dorothy Isabel Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Cole of Fremont, and Dr. S. J. Campbell, Bucyrus surgeon. The nuptials took place at 4:30 o'clock in Hayes Memorial Methodist church.

Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents the couple left on a 10-day wedding trip, keeping their destination secret. They will be at home at 622 South Sandusky avenue upon their return.

BRITISH BACK CHURCHILL TALK

Favor Aid To Russia In War Against Nazis But Doubt Strength of Reds.

here in Britain because Hitler is now spitting his venom at the east," the News Chronicle declared. "Fate has given ourselves and the Russians a common aim —to smash the Nazis."

The Daily Mail declared "There must be no sitting back. If we do not use the lull to the full in preparation we may perish . . . by helping Russia we are helping ourselves."

In his 20-minute radio message to the world Churchill urged that "all our friends and Allies" take the same course as Britain in helping the Soviet Union fight—an urging taken without question by British as directed, among others, at the United States.

"Russia's danger is our danger," he declared, "and the danger of the United States."

He offered "any technical and economic assistance" within Britain's power and added:

"We shall bomb Germany by day as well as by night in ever-increasing measure, casting upon them month by month a heavier discharge of bombs and making the German people taste and gulp each month a sharper dose of the miseries they have showered upon mankind."

Report Soviet Accepts British Aid Offer

LONDON —(U.P.)— Soviet Russia was reliably understood today to have accepted Great Britain's offer to aid against Nazi Germany and to have offered Soviet military and economic assistance to Britain.

The Russian attitude was conveyed to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden when he received the Soviet ambassador, Ivan Maisky.

Britain previously had asked Moscow what aid could be given Russia in line with Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech declaring that this country would offer assistance to the Soviet Union.

Cattlemen Draw Up Rules For Dude Ranchers

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—(INS)—Cattlemen of the Southwest are getting a little bit jealous of the way dude ranchers and motion picture actors have usurped their fashions.

High-heeled cowboy boots do not signify a cattleman anymore, the real cattlemen point out.

So the real cattlemen plan to do something about it. They have drawn up a set of rules which they hope the dude ranchers and Hollywood cowboys will recognize. The rules follow:

1—A man must own at least two head of cattle before he is entitled to wear boots.

2—The owner of three head can stuff the right pants leg in.

3—The owner of four head can stuff both pants legs in.

4—Only the owners of larger herds can wear spurs.

MARRIAGE PERFORMED TODAY AT BRIDE'S HOME IN CRESTLINE

CRESTLINE — Miss Helen Allene Schindler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schindler, 208 North Pearl street, and John Z. Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Cole of Shelby, exchanged marriage vows in a single ring ceremony this morning at the Schindler home.

Rev. J. W. Dowds, retired Methodist minister and a former pastor here, read the service. Baskets of white lilies, blue delphinium, and pink roses stood at either side of the bay window of the living room in front of which the bridal party stood for the ceremony which was witnessed by members of the immediate families.

The couple had as their attendants the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O. Koch of Shelby.

A rose beige shirt waist frock of silk embroidered marquisette was worn by the bride for her wedding. She wore a small tight fitting pink hat with brown veil and beige shoes and gloves. Her only jewelry was a gold bracelet the gift of the bridegroom.

Her attendant wore hyacinth blue sheer with matching turban, blue gloves and other accessories of white. Orchid corsages were worn by the bride and her attendant.

A breakfast for the bridal party and immediate families was held following the ceremony at Susie Janis near Mansfield. A tiered wedding cake and bowls of white, blue and pink flowers decorated the table where covers were placed for nine.

Mrs. Schindler, the bride's mother, wore navy sheer, and Mr. Cole's mother wore black sheer, both wore accessories of white and had shoulderettes of gardenias.

The couple left later for a wedding trip to Canada and upon their return will reside at 134 East Main street, Shelby, where the groom is employed as sales promotion manager for the Shelby Sales Book company.

The bride's traveling ensemble was a brown crepe dress with polka dots of powder blue and short coat of powder blue. Her hat was of cocoa straw and other accessories were of the same shade. The bride had been employed as bookkeeper at the Burch corporation for a number of years, but resigned her position in view of her marriage.

Shelby Man Surrenders After Deputy Makes Futile Trip.

Deputy Sheriff G. C. Humphrey didn't get the man he went to Portsmouth after Saturday, but his intended prisoner made certain the deputy's trip wasn't fruitless.

Released by mistake by Scioto county authorities before Humphrey reached Portsmouth, James Patton, Shelby, wanted in connection with the theft of a movie camera, returned to Shelby last night and surrendered to police.

The camera, owned by the Devito studio in Shelby, was stolen last week from an automobile in Shelby. Officers in Portsmouth arrested Patton on suspision when he allegedly attempted to sell the camera on the street for $5.

Informed by Shelby police that Patton was wanted there, Portsmouth authorities said they would hold him for the Richland county deputy sheriff. A jail attendant, however, released him with some "over-night" prisoners, apparently unaware of the Shelby charge.

MARRIAGE VOWS EXCHANGED BY SHELBY COUPLES

Faber - Robinson and Molder-Rietschlin Weddings Held Saturday.

SHELBY—Two weddings of interest united Miss Josephine Marie Faber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Faber, Shelby, and Howard L. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Robinson, Shelby, and Miss Mildred Molder of near Shelby and Eugene Rietschlin of near Crestline, here Saturday.

The ceremony uniting Miss Faber and Mr. Robinson took place at 3:30 p. m. at First Lutheran church with Rev. D. Bruce Young, pastor of the church, officiating.

Attending the couple were the bride's sister, Mrs. Henry Miller, and Robert E. Winnegar, both of Shelby.

A reception was given at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. Following a wedding trip, the couple will make their home on Madison avenue.

The former Miss Faber graduated from Shelby Public schools and later from Mansfield Business college. Mr. Robinson graduated from Shelby high school and attended Ohio State university and Purdue. He is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Miss Molder and Mr. Rietschlin exchanged marriage vows in a quiet ceremony at 8 a. m. Saturday at the Sacred Heart rectory at Shelby Settlement. Rev. Abair, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

The couple were attended by Miss Pauline Rietschlin of Mansfield and Raymond Rietschlin of Crestline.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Molder, south of Shelby.

Mrs. Rietschlin is a graduate of Shelby high school and is employed at Shelby Spring Hinge company. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rietschlin of near Crestline. He attended the Tiro schools and has been employed at the Crestline roundhouse.

TENTH PLEDGED

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus' campaign to raise funds for the U. S. O. drive is making slow progress, H. E. Kiess, treasurer of the drive has announced. To date only one tenth of the quota, which is $900, has been subscribed.

At Crestline the $500 quota has been more than filled and North Robinson, Chatfield and Sulphur Springs have filled their $75 quotas, Kiess said.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JUNE 23, 1941.

Where Do We Stand Now?

THE startling events of yesterday morning, when Adolf Hitler and Naziism went to war against Josef Stalin and Communism have thrown the international situation into chaos.

A thousand questions of policy and action confront this country as a result of this sensational development.

How shall America, as a nation, view it? How shall it act?

We have long considered both Communism and Naziism enemies of our American beliefs and our system.

Does one of these, with both in conflict, now become palatable to us, so that we shall call it friend and give it help?

Is the battle a clash of ideologies? Or shall we view it simply as the desperate effort of Hitler to attain access to supplies he needs to conquer the world—there seems now less doubt than ever that this is his aim. For if he beats Russia and gets the supplies he needs, no one is so naive as to believe he will then loosen his grip.

If we incline to the latter theory, Russia's battle should have our sympathies. Should it also have our help?

It is a strange question to have confronting us, recalling the incidents of the past few years that have strained relations between this country and Russia.

Yet there is one phase of the whole situation that comes into sharper relief as a result of the clash between Germany and Russia.

That is our aid-to-Britain effort. Whether we like Communists or not, the fact remains they are fighting Hitler—and we are helping Britain in its fight against Hitler.

Therefore, we ought not lose a minute in speeding up our aid to Britain, sending her planes and more planes, tanks and more tanks, guns and more guns.

For even if the Russian campaign proves nothing more than a short one for Hitler, the time he takes for it will be in Britain's favor and in ours.

Grant that Communism is an enemy of democracy. At least it is now fighting Naziism, which is also an enemy. If Communism helps defeat a now common enemy, we can handle the issue of Communism after the first battle has been won.

Are the Reds' Faces Red?

IF IT weren't for the seriousness of the situation it might be a time to laugh at the Communist strike leaders in this country who so recently have tried with might and main to block our aid-to-Britain effort.

Where do they stand now? How does it seem to them to know that they have been helping Germany, which is Moscow's enemy, not Moscow's friend?

What is the new party line to be? An immediate propaganda campaign for a greater "all out" effort to aid Russia as well as Britain?

It's a stern lesson that has been jammed down the throats of these Communists in this country. It's probably futile to point it out to them, but wouldn't they have been a lot better off if they'd become just good Americans?

Radio Rivalry

THE United States has been broadcasting some special programs to Latin-America for the purpose of winning friends and counteracting German and Italian propaganda. Mostly the broadcasts have gone by short wave. Now Miss Gizelle Shaw of Buenos Aires, in Atlantic City attending the conference of the National Women's Party, says that much of this broadcasting is wasted.

Short wave broadcasts can only be received clearly in Argentina, for example, by means of expensive radio sets. There aren't many. Long wave broadcasts, on the other hand, would be widely heard, for many people have suitable receiving sets for such transmission.

The sad thing about the situation is that the German and Italian broadcasts, sent by long wave, are easily heard by many people. The Axis countries are on the air about 25 times a day. "The wonderful programs you offer," says Miss Shaw, "are not available to many in Argentina.

"The people of Argentina are pro-democracy and anti-Nazi in spirit, but the United States and Great Britain should do all they can to maintain friendly relations, because the Germans are not resting an hour in their efforts to woo South America."

If the nation is in earnest about this particular "good neighbor" feature, the radio situation should be improved promptly.

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—With the possible exception of wheat, there is not enough of anything, won't be enough next year, and won't be enough in 1943. That is the accepted doctrine of those who are really running national defense. It is the explanation of a lot of things which are puzzling business men all over the country.

The philosophy is that what we will need is not something to be charted out on a schedule of appropriations to be made by congress. The thing to do under this philosophy is to find out the most of EVERYTHING that can be produced—everything that is under the national defense category, which is surprisingly near everything that can be imagined—and then plan appropriations for these maximum capacities.

It is an interesting doctrine, one that probably has never governed an administration before anywhere in the world. The Nazis doctrine, of producing everything the army and navy said they wanted, and then letting civilians have the rest, is an approach to it, but not really a near approach. It is helpful to consider the Nazi plan in trying to understand the FDR plan. It at least gets the mind in tune.

There is no question, of course, in the FDR plan of ignoring the civilians. But they will be asked and expected to do without things they would like to have, in order that the national defense effort not be impeded.

The whole picture is easier to illustrate in terms of electric power than anything else, that being one of the things which cannot be produced quickly. So the order of the day is that every possible source of electric power be tapped, whether it will result in power one year from now, three years from now, or five years from now.

In keeping with this policy the Federal Power Commission has even taken what some of the radicals regard as a backward step in the march to eventual public ownership of the electric business. This was the granting of licenses for the construction of the Cresta and Pulga dams on Feather river, in California. Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes was much put out about this, but the Power Commission went ahead anyway.

The only concession to the public power bloc was that the licenses were granted for 35 years only, instead of the usual 50. Which means recapture of the dams 35 years hence if the government then is so disposed, and very tight regulation meanwhile.

But the point is that if a suggestion is made that power can be developed at X and Y cross roads, the objection being that there is no probability that the power can be used economically in that vicinity, the administration says: "Go ahead. We will provide the industry to use that power when it is ready."

This is not only true of power. It is true of everything. Some of the most amazing and unexpected shortages are turning up. For example who would have imagined a shortage of tomatoes, just a few months ago? But the British suddenly discover that their rations would be enormously improved, with respect to vitamins, etc., if they could get 50,000,000 cases of canned tomatoes from us. So the word goes forth. The canners are induced to promise the farmers $3 a ton more for canning tomatoes, in the hope that the farmers will then grow plenty. The only trouble with that was that congress messed the picture up by boosting the "guarantee" on wheat, and farmers were much surer of their money in wheat than in tomatoes. Tomatoes have to be picked when they are ripe, and the labor might not be available.

What Is a Fair Test of Intellect?

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I HAVE been much interested in the articles by Mr. Bruce Blevin in the New Republic which indicate a map of the future, or a road to a new world. Some of them very directly affect hygiene and medical science. Mr. Blevin blithely accepts all the most exaggerated reports on the vitamins and believes that by a little chemical hocus-pocus we are going to turn millions of constitutionally inadequate people into hustling, alert and successful citizens.

Another of his ideas is that we should develop more geniuses. He very properly points out that much of the advance of mankind has been achieved by persons of outstanding abilities, who deserve the name of geniuses, and that there are many thousands of individuals of high intelligence walking the streets of our towns and cities today, their abilities unrecognized, and that this material should be utilized. The way he intends to bring this about is to recognize the geniuses by intelligence tests.

Tests of Geniuses.

He has a very interesting set of tables to show that the geniuses of history have had their intelligence quotients measured (by studies of their work and biographies). For instance, John Adams and Lincoln had an IQ of 140-145, while Goethe, John Stuart Mill and Newton had IQ's of 190-200.

I don't know exactly what IQ tests were used to make these determinations. The old Binet-Simon test had for adults such problems as the rearrangement of a triangle and the ability of the subject to solve the questions of the president. For the latter, one doesn't have to go to Goethe or John Stuart Mill. There is a fellow who sits on the mineral oil barrel in Albert Doerschuk's drug store who solves the president's problems faster than you can state them.

In college freshman tests, one question is: "If James had four times as much money as George, he would have $16. How much money has George?" Are we to understand that Goethe could solve that one and one-half times better and faster than Lincoln, and that is the way we are to select our geniuses for the brave, new world?

The Human Element.

One does not like, naturally, even by the faintest skepticism to dim the colors of the rainbow of the new dawn, but I had considerable experience with IQ tests in the last army, and in my experience, they do not turn up any geniuses. The men they assigned me as super-intelligent and particularly fitted for the job to which they were assigned, soon became acutely uninterested in the job and were much more troublesome than some humble individual who liked to work.

Something is left out of the intelligence questions—the real human essence that makes the genius cannot be determined. Many unrecognized geniuses walking our streets will stay that way on account of some quirk—perhaps lack of ambition—the will to stay obscure. The total human personality escapes the tests and we will, I think, still have to depend on the rough and tumble of trial and error and luck in life.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, June 23, 1921.

Pauline Scott left for Eaglesmere, Pa., to attend national Y. W. C. A. convention.

Supt. T. C. Jenkins of the Ohio State Reformatory was in Columbus attending the state board of administration meeting.

Rotarians here entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Black.

Richland county rural letter carriers held a family picnic at the John Boyce farm.

Carpenter and Ross farm shipped two carloads of cattle to Calgary, Alberta, to exhibit at the stock circuit in Canada.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, June 23, 1936.

Miss Ruth Cole and Miss Louise Palmer left for Oxford to take a summer school course.

Attorneys Lewis Brucker and Edwin Mansfield were honored at a party as they rounded out 50 years of law practice.

Harry A. Frietchen was elected president of the Mansfield Sunday School Superintendents' club.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Hissong, 194 Harker street.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Craig returned home from a trip to Washington, D. C.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Three Milwaukee, Wis., associates, C. Latham Sholes, printer and editor; Samuel W. Soule, a printer, and Carlos Glideen, financier, secured the patent on the first successful typewriter in the world on June 23, 1868.

U. S. Experts Go to Egypt to See Our Medium Tanks at Work

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Last month the OPM suddenly announced that A. R. Glancy, able head of its ordnance division, had resigned to take an unspecified post in Harry Hopkins' lend-lease agency. A week or so later it leaked out that Glancy would go to London in connection with his new work.

Glancy has not gone to London. He is en route to Egypt via the China Clipper, to make a first-hand study of how the army's new 14-ton light tank stands up under actual combat conditions.

These tanks, capable of 75 miles an hour at temperatures as high at 115 degrees, have reached British forces in North Africa in considerable numbers. One large shipment recently arrived by way of the Red sea, which the President opened to U. S. cargo vessels several months ago. Some of the tanks saw heavy action in the Syrian campaign.

Because our light tank is the first produced here in quantity and incorporates lessons so far learned in the war, U. S. military chiefs are vitally interested in its performance. So Glancy's mission is most important.

Glancy is accompanied by Major Joe Colby, Army ordnance ace. The two experts probably will return by way of London, to confer with British authorities.

Note — The Nazis know, of course, that U. S. tanks are operating on the African front, and some authorities are wondering privately whether this had any connection with the sinking of the Robin Moor. They point out that the Nazi submarine commander made repeated inquiries whether the ship was carrying any motorized equipment.

U. S. Embassy In Berlin.

The Germans are a thorough people. They investigate everything. They even investigated the ladies' lavatory in the American Embassy in Berlin to make sure it was not a storage place for munitions.

The U. S. Embassy in Berlin is the old Blucher Palace, located on the Unter den Linden, and it has plenty of dignity; but not much modernity. Recently plans were drawn for its remodeling.

The plans included a ladies' retiring room which on the blueprints was described as "powder room." And when the German contractor got hold of the blueprints, he looked at those words and made a literal translation into German.

"Powder room" became pulverkammer, which means "powder magazine."

He hurried around to report this dangerous plot to the German secret police, and the American Embassy was promptly investigated by the Gestapo on the suspicion that it was becoming a munitions warehouse.

John Lewis' Answer.

John L. Lewis has given his answer to the question of where he stands on purging the CIO of Communist elements.

His position is of crucial moment, since it means the difference between peace or war inside the CIO. Numerically weak, the leftists can be easily driven out of the CIO if Lewis doesn't side with them. But if he does, a major war breaking the CIO wide open will be necessary.

Lewis' answer is that he is solidly behind the left-wingers and against their purgers. He made his answer in two highly significant moves:

First was the announcement by A. D. ("Denny") Lewis, his younger brother, that the United Construction workers, which Denny heads, had issued a charter to the powerful Minneapolis teamsters union, Local 544. Led by the Dunn brothers, Miles and Vincent, known in Minnesota as adherents of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party, Local 544 was on the verge of being purged by AFL teamsters boss Dan Tobin when it bolted to the CIO.

Now Denny Lewis' United Construction workers is little more than a paper union and would fold up overnight if not supported by CIO funds. When John L. was CIO president, the union received a monthly subsidy of $20,000; but when Phil Murray became president he cut this to $10,000 a month. Inside CIO word is that John L. is making up the $10,000 difference out of United Mine Worker funds.

Further, Denny Lewis issued his charter to the teamster local on the approval of brother John L. and without consulting Murray. And John L. did this directly after Murray's denunciation of the leftist-instigated outlaw strikes at Inglewood, Cal., and Cleveland, O.; also after the declaration of anti-Communist forces that they would purge the CIO.

The Trotskyites and Stalinites have buried the hatchet on the international issue, since the murder of Trotsky in Mexico last year. Lewis knew that the Dunn brothers see eye to eye with his own views opposing the defense and aid Britain policies.

Murray Knuckles Under.

Lewis also was aware that taking Local 544 into the CIO fold may mean a ferocious jurisdictional war with the AFL, making the Northwest a bloody battlefield.

Second significant move was Murray's surprise statement opposing a Red purge.

This was a complete reversal of the stand he took in the Inglewood and Cleveland strikes, and it was forced by Lewis. Murray issued his statement after a secret pow-wow with John L. in his ornate Mine Worker office. The statement was written by Len DeCaux, leftist publicity agent, who is high on the CIO list for purging.

Note—Murray has been bombarded with protests from CIO leaders in the Northwest warning him that the chartering of Local 544 spells the end of the CIO in that section.

Air Trailers.

Taking a leaf from the battle of Crete, the Army Air Corps has placed a rush order for ten airplane gliders.

Army observers in the Near East strongly recommended this, and it is the beginning of extensive army experimental work in motorless planes. Details of the order are confidential, but the gliders will carry from 8 to 12 fully armed parachute troops.

Simple to construct and without motors, the gliders will be out of the factories in a few weeks, and will be assigned to the Air Corps parachute units.

SAN FRANCISCO — Maj. Gen. Paul Malone (ret.), whose name was on an America First list as available for speeches under its auspices, states that he was asked to make three talks but declined. Also, that he has requested that his name be removed from the speakers' list . . . Mrs. C. T., El Paso, Tex.—Like other Administration leaders, Speaker Sam Rayburn openly is taking no part in the Texas senatorial contest. But he freely tells all who ask him that he is supporting "President Roosevelt's candidate, Lyndon Johnson." The answer to your second question is that the White House believes Johnson will win. They say their opinion is based on private information from Texas leaders.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Answering the mail orders — entirely military:

Miss C. L., Okemah, Okla.—There are a few more than 5,000 nurses in the army now, but according to the medical corps here, there will be more than 8,000 by the first of next year. If you can come up to army requirements, don't worry for a minute about getting a job. Nurses are almost No. 1 on the army's list of hoped-for recruits.

Pvt. K. M., Camp Robinson, Ark.—The army is preparing to take care of cases similar to that you outline. Special battalions will be formed, composed of men who fall behind because of need of special medical, educational, or psychological treatment. There should be no disgrace whatever attached to belonging to these battalions. Some of the best soldiers and even topnotch officers have developed from men who were maladjusted to regular army routine. The army discovered in 1918 that by treatment of this kind it could salvage thousands of good soldiers who might otherwise have been discharegd for lack of ability to keep up the training pace.

J. T., "Somewhere in Tennessee:—I sympathize and so does the army with the fact that your store stock was "plumb cleaned out" when the soldiers hit your "hump in the hills." Maybe a year from now, all major units on maneuvers will carry their own mobile commissary departments. These truck-and-trailer five-and-dimes will carry about 60 necessities (razor blades, toothpaste), and such luxuries as cigarets, chewing gum, and such. It shouldn't be enough to keep the local stores on maneuver routes from doing a business, but it should prevent "wrecking local sales" by stripping a storekeeper of his stock. The quartermaster corps, however, is just experimenting with such markets on wheels.

Mrs. D. O. N., Brownwood, Tex., Mail properly addressed to the "Army Post Office" in any of the new Atlantic bases takes only the domestic rate. If it is improperly addressed—that is without the APO number, it probably will move on the international rate. Undoubtedly that is what happened in your case. From Newfoundland to the Bahamas, the army now has numbered army postoffices with the numbers ranging from 801 to 808 in the following order: Newfoundland, APO No. 801; Bermuda, 802; Trinidad, 803; Jamaica, 804; Saint Lucia, 805; Antigua, 806; British Guiana, 807; and the Bahamas, 808.

W. J., Springfield, Ill.—The new army pilot training program calls for 30,000 pilots a year. There are now about 50 perliminary training centers, but this number is being stepped up almost weekly.

S. H., Manchester, Tenn.—You are right, but it happened too recently for inclusion in the paragraph you mention. Enlisted men without more than high school education can now become pilots in the air force. If their applications are accepted and they complete their training courses satisfactorily, they will become flying non-coms. The authorization came through congress.

Mrs. N. R. C., Stamford, Conn.—There is no federal law to outlaw the sale of intoxicating liquors within a certain distance of military reservations. Two such bills have been introduced in Congress, one in each house. The one in the Senate was authored by the late Sen. Morris Sheppard of Texas, who was known as the father of prohibition. Neither has been considered.

Let's Look Around

Oddly Named Wyoming Towns

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

SUNDANCE, Wyo.—An effort to preserve the recorded history and traditions of the Indians who were the original inhabitants of all of this vast northwest region, is plainly seen in the names retained by various small towns through which we pass in the drive east from Yellowstone park. It is also noted that in these towns the altitude is always higher than the population—both figures being shown at the corporation lines.

This small town of Sundance, for instance, gets its name from nearby Sundance mountain, on which bands of Indians from the Blackhill district gathered for their Sun Dance ceremonies, enacted tribal laws and performed religious rites.

Tensleep, another of the small towns through which we passed on the way here from Cody, holds to a name of distinctly Indian origin, the "tensleep" meaning the ten days of travel required to travel on foot from one reservation to the next.

Peculiarity of its name, and its cozy location in Ten Sleep canyon, near a large lake by the same name, attracts the notice of visitors and results in considerable overnight tourist trade during the Yellowstone season—but Buffalo, Gillette, and several other places also provide convenient stopovers for westbound tourists who find evening coming on before reaching Cody.

ALONG this road, also, you find constant reference made to Devil's Tower national monument, reached by a short side trip from Route 14, between Moorcroft and here.

"Devil's Tower," as you may not have known—and may not even have cared—is the colossus of national monuments and it is estimated that Nature placed it in position as much as 20,000,000 years ago—so that it might be in readiness well in advance of the advent of the thousands of visitors who are now attracted to it—or who catch a glimpse of it from the highway many miles away.

Rearing magnificently to a height of 865 feet, with a base diameter of 1,000 feet, Devil's Tower has much the appearance of a mammoth tree trunk, the whole thing being what geologists term a "lava blister," due to the upwelling of molten rock, long before this planet had acquired the degree of coolness which now requires only such heat outlets as the geysers of Yellowstone—and occasional earthquakes.

The acre-and-a-half top surface of this tower has been seen by only a few people—except from an airplane—as the ascent is almost vertical and has been prohibited to all except experienced pinnacle climbers.

It is estimated that this 400 million-ton rock formation would supply material to surface a 16-foot roadway nine times around the earth. And its monstrous size indicates that this is no exaggeration.

Indian legends are naturally woven around Devil's Tower, one being associated with the sad plight of several Indian maidens who were pursued by bears and took refuge on top of the tower, the rough markings on the sides being attributed to the claws of the pursuing bears. A favorite picture seen here gives an artist's conception of this legend—but the eventual fate of the Indian girls is not disclosed.

YESTERDAY'S experiences included a hail storm in the Big Horn mountains—and a hail storm out here means a continuous bombardment of ice pellets up to an inch in diameter, and complete covering of the highway—abruptly stopping all motor traffic for half an hour or more. Then the sun came out brightly—melted the hail—and cars moved again.

AT THIS POINT we are nearing the South Dakota line and the little town of Spearfish will soon be engaging our interest. Ever hear of Spearfish? Something out of the ordinary seems to be going on there and we'll take time to look around.

A Farmer's Diary

A Field of Proso

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

TODAY I sowed a crop I have never tried to grow before . . . a Siberian millet, known as "drought-proof proso." The seeds are larger than clover seed, white, with a wheaty taste and a reputation for being excellent food for hogs and poultry. The grain matures in 60 days and can be planted as late as July 15th. Makes an adequate catch crop for use where other crops have failed, or when time is short. For this reason it was valuable in 1933, in the dust bowl of the west, where it helped tide many farmers over.

It will grow anywhere, in wet or dry weather, on any kind of soil and can be fed in the straw to poultry or cattle, since the grain does not shatter easily. The straw, too, makes good pasture or feed, and animals suffer no ill effects from foraging it. One good rain is all that is needed to make a crop—and since we had so much rain lately, I suspect we are due for hot dry weather soon. If so I shall be able to judge the merits of the claims for this "wonder grain."

Judging from a photograph, it grows waist-high to a tall man, and it is said to produce as high as 70 bushels per acre of grain that weighs 60 to 65 lbs. per bushel. It will grow on high dry soil, not suited for other grains. The field I planted is not high, however, but lays beyond our wheat field toward Honey Creek. I sowed it broadcast, with a fiddle seeder, 30 pounds to the acre and had it harrowed in. It is said to make a sprangly head, more like oats than wheat, and my plan is to have it combined the last of August and leave the straw on the land.

There is always a thrill in trying out something new—especially a crop as versatile as this "drought proof proso" is claimed to be. Only a few years ago soybeans were just as rare and little known—now they have jumped to a foremost place in American agriculture. I'll report later as to the outcome of this four acre experimental field.

The Secret of the Marshbanks + + +

By Kathleen Norris

CHAPTER XII

"They moved their baby to the hospital that first day. Well, that's all. You know all the rest. You didn't die. Every hour seemed the last but it wasn't. Days went by, and Lottie and I took you to the country. I'd told Fred, after that night, that of course I'd go; he needn't be afraid he'd ever see you again. But later he sent for me, and when I confessed that my sister had had a child—his child—he then made the provision that you know of. You grew strong and big, much stronger than Amy, and I tried . . . " The speaker's voice thickened; there was a pause.

"I tried to like you, Cherry. When you came to Mrs. Porter's I tried to remember poor Lottie's triumph and her revenge. But it wasn't any use. You nursed me, you brought me Cappy . . ."

Emma stopped abruptly, stroking the cat which had jumped into her lap.

"That's all," she said, and there was another silence.

"Who knows, Aunt Emma?" Cherry said then, hoarsely.

"Nobody knows. Lottie died of penumonia when you were seven. No one else knows." She paused. "In a few weeks, if you like, you can tell the judge this. For I think he knows something," Emma said. "It is only my idea; there may be no foundation for it."

Cherry sat opposite the judge in his home library some weeks later, and poured forth the story. Amy had wired Cherry that she had two boys—Budge Taylor and Jimmy MacDonald—engaged for dinner and bridge, and needed Cherry, and Cherry, accepting had telephoned the judge, to ask him if she might talk to him a few minutes before he left with Fran to go to a large dinner at Burlingame.

It was 6 o'clock on a November evening; three days before Cherry's 21st birthday, and a year since she left Saint Dorothea's. She had shared Emma's secret for more than a month now, and knew that it would be safe, as far as Emma was concerned, to confide it to the judge. Emma's identity and location were completely buried; her name had changed; a postcard bearing the words, "Leaving tomorrow, always my best wishes, sincerely, E," had assured Cherry of Emma's protection in that direction.

The judge listened attentively, his face grave. "Emma was to be married?" he asked finally. "Who's the man?"

"She didn't tell me. Not what her new name is, or where they are going to live. I think," Cherry, who was rather pale by this time and whose cheeks were wet with tears, added timidly, "that she's been living under the fear that all this would come out, and she would be punished, her sister's name dragged into it and disgraced."

"When will you be twentyone, Cherry?"

"Next Wednesday."

"You would have known it then, anyway," the man said quietly.

Cherry's color rushed up; she half rose from her seat.

"Then it's true?" she whispered.

"Yes, it's true. Or it may be true."

"And you've known it!"

"I've known about it—about the possibility, for a long time. Not that Emma told me."

"She said she had never breathed it to anyone! Did my mother—I mean did Aunt Emma's sister—did Lottie tell you?"

"I never saw Lottie. Everyone else in the household had seen her, for she used to come and stay with Emma. But I had been living in Washington, and had only been home a week or two when this tragedy occurred, and both you babies came into the world."

"But if Aunt Emma didn't tell you?"

"My brother did. Fred did. He knew."

"You see, Cherry," Judge Marshbanks continued, "Lottie was actually in this house, and she had come downstairs that night to—in her despair and weakness and anger—to reproach Fred. She had been so ill—she had so bitterly resented his freedom to enjoy his position, the welcome that was awaiting the other child, that I suppose she hardly knew what she was doing. He didn't know she was staying here, but a few days after that scene, when Amelia and the baby had been taken to the hospital, he was at home in mid-afternoon trying to get some rest, when he heard a baby fretting. He went out into the hall and listened and then went on upstairs.

"Lottie was lying in bed asleep; Emma was out. Fred told me afterward that the floor seemed to rock beneath his feet when he saw Lottie, that he had realized in that second what must be the case. He crossed the hall and opened another door, and there in a basket was the tiny child that was his own. Blue, and gasping for air; he thought it was dying then.

"There was an old nurse sitting there, a thin old woman who seemed to speak no English. Emma had brought her in to watch the child. She indicated in pantomime to Fred that it was only a mater of moments—an hour or two perhaps—before the poor baby would slip away, and he went downstairs again, stunned, not knowing what to do or what to think.

"He'd seen the blue little gasping thing before! There wasn't any mistaking it! But to change back might have cost Amelia's life, for she was still hovering between life and death.

"Fred was older than I, but usually when he got into trouble it was to me that he came. But he didn't dare tell anyone this. When at last he knew you would live, Emma came to us, and we made arrangements for your support, but it wasn't until Fred was dying after a motor smash that he sent for me, and told me. He had had Judge Comstock in by the time I reached him. Fred said that he had made a statement and had it witnessed, but he swooned off. When he came out of it, in bits and snatches he told me the whole story, and gave me a long envelope that he said Amy was to open when she was 21.

"He said that both you girls would be 21 at the same time, and that then Amy was to have his property, and she must be told the truth, and find you, if you were living, and make a complete restitution. Lottie Rawlings was dead then, and you were at Saint Dorothea's. He said—poor Fred—that both were his daughters, and that as the years had gone by he had come to feel that Amy was Amelia's daughter too, but he hoped that you girls could come to an understanding out of court, that you would both keep the names you have always had, and that this will be just one more of the secrets that old families hide, generation after generation. It will be for you, I think, to make the terms. Poor little Amy has only a few more days to believe herself to be the Wellington heiress."

"Then it is true!" Cherry whispered. "But Emma said that there was no proof."

"There was no proof that Emma knew of. And I'm not sure we have proof now," Judson Marshbanks said. He opened a lower desk drawer, and took from it first a small shining revolver.

"Don't be frightened," he reassured the girl, who was staring at it with widened eyes, "I'd forgotten that it was here; it belongs upstairs. Now this," he added, taking a long envelope from the drawer, and laying it on the desk between them, "is Fred's—your father's will. In this he has also enclosed, I believe, a statement from your mother—or rather from Lottie Rawlings—and his own affidavit that the children, you and Amy, were exchanged in the first hours of their lives. It will be Amy's twenty-first birthday.

"I brought this home a few days ago from safe deposit, and on Sunday next I think we must break the news. I suppose you knew," the man went on in a changed tone, "that a scamp who has been twice married before, both times to rich women, has got Amy into his toils now? She is in a delirium of love and confidence; she wants to tell us all about it as long as we'll listen!"

"Amy?"

"Oh, yes. They've known each other only a few weeks, but it is Count Mario Constantino or nobody for Amy now."

"Not the man that Sandra Baker divorced!"

"That's the man. He plays polo like a devil, speaks five or six languages, uses his own special perfume, dances divinely, and Amy is only anxious for fear he won't want her."

"Oh, Amy can't be such a fool! Didn't the second wife commit suicide?"

"The first. The second is paying him five hundred a month to keep away from her.

"But you've talked to Amy!"

"We all have. My mother's frantic about it. But don't worry. When she tells him as she'll have to tell him, that her fortune belongs to another woman—Mother!"

The last word was a shocked whisper. For old Mrs. Marshbanks, with a face of chalk and a rustle of silks, had risen from a great chair which faced a window, and had come to the desk. She spoke in that horrified silence.

"You don't think for one instant that you can do this to Amy," she hissed. "You don't think for one instant that this fantastic story of babies being changed will convince anyone of anything? You and Emma and this girl here cooking up all this nonsense!"

"You were listening," the judge said, dazedly. 'I'm sorry, Mother," he went on after a moment of silence. "But it isn't my doing or Emma's. It's Fred's—Fred's from the beginning. And we can't we can't stop it now."

"Could we stop it now?" Cherry demanded, frightened. "Couldn't we tell Amy something — something that wouldn't make it so hard for her? Couldn't we . . ."

"I can stop it now!" The long envelope was in the old woman's hands; before either of the others could move she had torn it both ways, was at the fireplace, had scattered the instantly flaming pieces of paper upon the coals. "It's stopped," she said, coming back breathless and sinking into a chair. "Your attempt to—to rob Amy and to—to slander your brother have failed, Jud! We'll hear no more of this nonsense!"

Cherry looked fearfully at the judge and he looked at his mother, who sent alternate defiant glances from one of their faces to the other.

There was no sound in the room until Amy's voice came, high and exultant, from the doorway.

"Cherry, come on upstairs, we have to talk! I've just been riding in the park. It's the divinest afternoon you ever saw, and the sunset was simply too much!"

"Go ahead, Cherry," said the Judge. Cherry left mother and son together.

"And if anyone tells you different, they're jealous!" Amy finished a long, rapturous narrative scornfully, with her usual indifference to the rules of grammar.

Cherry might have supposed herself incapable of interest in any but her own affairs, but Amy's confidences had been of a nature so thrilling, so important, that Cherry was carried by them out of herself. Amy was madly, completely in love with the fascinating Count Mario, familiarly known as "Gogo," and intended to marry him immediately upon reaching her majority.

"Until I'm twenty-one I'm not supposed to marry anyone without Uncle Jud's full approval," stated Amy, "but I'll be twenty-one next week, and then the family is due for a surprise!"

"But, Amy, suppose after you marry him, you find that all these things he's been telling you aren't true?"

"But why should I? Am I going to find out some day that I'm not me and you're not you?"

You might have, once, Cherry thought. But you may not now. "I thought you might have gone to Sausalito with Fran," she said aloud.

"Was she in Sausalito today?"

"I believe she was."

"Kelly's crazy about her," Amy said absently. Cherry's heart sank—sank. "Say," Amy added suddenly. "Will you ask her if she and Uncle Jud are staying down in Burlingame tonight? If they are, I'm going off riding again with Gogo early tomorrow."

"No, they're not staying. I happen to know because the judge told me she had spoken to him about it being too much to have Rousseau wait up late to drive them home, after being all day in Sausalito, but Uncle Jud said it wouldn't hurt him!"

"Oh, damn!" said Amy. "Fran said yesterday they were going to stay at the club. Ask her, will you, Cherry? She's dressing. Because I have to telephone Gogo."

Cherry crossed the hall to Fran's bedroom door, which stood slightly ajar. She pushed it open and saw Fran in a flowing lacy gown at the telephone, with her back to the room.

"Ah, don't be silly," darling, that's all jealousy," Fran was saying. "After a heavenly day like today, it's so stupid of you to make a fuss! Yes, we're going to Burlingame. He wants me to. Well, he wants to. Yes—I have to. I'll hate it! Every minute of it. Where are you? Downstairs? But that's dangerous, dear. Please be reasonable, because you worry me so! Truly you do."

TWILIGHT CEREMONY READ FOR MISS TUTTLE

Pretty Wedding Service Solemnized In Garden of A. C. Tuttle Home for Mansfield Girl and R. C. McCoy of Weatherford, Texas.

IN A lovely garden ceremony at twilight Miss Hazel Jane Tuttle exchanged nuptial vows with Robert Clark McCoy of Weatherford, Texas, Sunday evening at the home of her parents. The single ring service was solemnized before a natural setting of evergreens and other greenery, intermingled with white blossoms. Rev. Harold Williams, pastor of the Methodist church in Oberlin, a close friend of the bride's family, officiated in the presence of more than 50 relatives and friends.

Preceding the service a program of nuptial selections was played by Miss Rosemary Black of Perry, O., childhood friend of the bride. The bride, escorted by her father, A. C. Tuttle, walked across the lawn to the improvised altar, where she was joined by her maid of honor, Miss Maxine Squires of Lakewood, aunt of Miss Tuttle.

A simple wedding gown of white marquisette over net was worn by Miss Tuttle for her wedding. The long full sleeves were caught at the wrist and the high neckline was rounded by a draw string of the marquisette. The bodice of the pretty gown was fashioned of lace and a narrow band of lace decorated the full skirt. She carried a large leghorn hat filled with mixed garden flowers in the pastel colors.

Miss Squires wore a formal gown of aqua net, made with a full skirt and lace bolero. She carried an armful of the pastel shaded garden flowers. William B. McCoy of Detroit, Mich., served his brother as best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Tuttle wore a rose lace frock with white accessories and a corsage of mixed flowers. Following the service an informal reception was held at the home, 73 Sherman avenue. Refreshments were served from a long table centered with a tiered wedding cake, garden flowers and tall lighted tapers.

Late in the evening the young couple left in their new car for their home in Weatherford, Texas. For traveling Mrs. McCoy wore a brown and white suit with brown straw hat.

She was graduated from Mansfield high school and for the past two years has been a student at Ohio State university. Mr. McCoy attended Ohio State where he was a member of the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity and also an active member of the university polo team. He is now engaged in ranch business in Texas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCoy of Breckenridge, Texas.

Out-of-town guests in attendance were the bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Clara Squires of Lakewood and her paternal grandfather, H. A. Tuttle of Perry, Miss Black of Perry, Mr. McCoy of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Orcutt of Marion, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Paulson of Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Squires and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Squires of Lakewood, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. William Ewing, Mr. and Mrs. Clark McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hayden, Joan and Kathleen McCoy, all of Wooster, Mr. and Mrs. William Bowen of Sidney and B. A. Workman of Alliance.

Anna Gurik Weds Joseph Young At Simple Service

Miss Anna Gurik, 800 Woodhill road, exchanged nuptial vows with Joseph Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Young, 345 Bulkley avenue, Saturday morning at 9:30 a. m. in the parish house of St. Peter's Catholic church. Father Dwyer officiated at the ceremony. For her wedding the bride wore a white jersey pique street length dress with a white turban and white accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Attending the couple were Mrs. Elizabeth Keller, who was attired in a beige ensemble with brown accessories and a corsage of pink roses, and John Fraifogl. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held for 20 friends and relatives of the couple at the home of the bride's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morris, 184 Fairlawn avenue. Breakfast was served at a long table centered with a wedding cake and decorated with roses.

After a short wedding trip the couple will reside at 345 Bulkley avenue. The bride attended Mansfield Senior high school. Mr. Young attended St. Peter's high school and is employed at the Ideal Electric company.

Miss Anna Bayer Entertains Club Sunday Afternoon

Miss Ann Bayer, Elizabeth avenue, entertained members of the Student Music club at her home Sunday afternoon. Richard Wright, who recently returned home from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, where he has been enrolled for the past year, presented the afternoons program.

He sang a group of five solos, two English numbers, one French, one Italian and one modern American. He was accompanied by Miss Frances Brinkerhoff. During the business session Miss Mary Boebel was appointed chairman of a committee to handle arrangements for a picnic to be held some time in August.

Assisting her will be Miss Marjorie Homerick, Miss Barbara Schwaner, Walter Simon and James Thomas. The next regular meeting will be held at the home of James Thomas, West Third street. Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting at a long table decorated with garden flowers.

CLASS OF 1921 HOLDS ANNIVERSARY DINNER

Seventy-Three Attend Party at American Legion Home Saturday Evening When Election of Officers Is Held; Social Time Enjoyed.

RICHARD PARSONS was elected president when members of the graduating class of 1921 of Mansfield high school met for their reunion Saturday evening at the American Legion. Seventy-three of the 131 were in attendance and enjoyed reminiscing and renewing acquaintances. Dinner was served at long tables in the dining room which were decorated in purple and gold. When new officers were chosen Miss Emily Nolan, general chairman of the party, was appointed vice president, Mrs. Alice Cashell, secretary, Fred Stahlheber, treasurer, and Harold Underwood, sergeant-at-arms.

The class had held a reunion 10 years following graduation and again five years ago. They plan to celebrate their silver anniversary with a special party in 1946. Invocation was given by Mrs. Cashell and welcome extended by the retiring president, Paul Ritchie.

Mr. Parsons served as toastmaster and introduced the class members who spoke briefly. Letters were also read from many who were unable to attend. Community singing was a feature of the entertainment. A short memorial service was led by Miss Nolan.

Those present from out-of-town included the following: Mrs. Mary Reed Dillon and Mr. Dillon of West Farmington, O., Mr. and Mrs. Arden N. Branson, Murray D. Shaffer and Mrs. Aleta Wert Houston, all of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Elliot of Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Treva Robinson Schuler and Mr. Schuler of Cincinnati; Mrs. Dorothy Evans Reinhold of Akron; Kenneth Sotherland of Wausau, Wis.; Jacob Komito of Ft. Wayne, Inr.; Mrs. Carolyn Moore Butz of Pittsburgh; Harrison McCrory of Hayesville.

Sorority Honors Graduates With Tea Party Sunday

Twenty-five young women who were graduated from Senior high school this month were honored by members of the Chi Omega sorority Sunday afternoon with a tea at the home of Miss Miriam Neese, 142 Parkwood boulevard. The afternoon was spent socially and appointments were in the sorority colors, cardinal and straw. Assisting Miss Neese with arrangements were Mrs. Earl Garr and Miss Martha Buesser.

At a later period refreshments were served and favors presented to the guests. Plans were discussed for the rush picnic to be held sometime in August.

HOLD MEETING

CRESTLINE—At a meeting of the Eagles auxiliary Friday evening the president, Mrs. Russell Fisher, who presided, appointed Mrs. E. S. Jenkins, captain of the degree team, Mrs. James Henry, pianist, and Mrs. Ben Burgett, auditor.

VENDOL RESULTS WERE PERFECT

"About two weeks ago I began taking Vendol, and actually believe the first dose helped me, and now I'm really amazed at the change this splendid medicine has made in my feelings," says Mrs. Vida McConnell, living at Warren, Ohio.

"My troubles can be traced to constipation resulting in a sour, gassy, upset stomach with rifting up hot liquids containing bits of food, and so much gas in my stomach that I was terribly bloated after meals and suffered palpitation and shortness of breath due to constipation.

"Vendol is the finest thing I ever tried for my troubles, giving the temporary relief from constipation I needed so badly; then those symptoms like upset stomach troubles due to constipation just pass away. Vendol gets my praise, and I advise everyone suffering the same way to take Vendol." Buy the larger size bottles for economy.

Deserted Wife Voices Plaint Of Her Cause

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A mother of three children who has been deserted by the husband and father writes me a letter and encloses her photograph. She asks me if any man would be ashamed to call her his wife.

Although she is undeniably pretty and attractively dressed, another woman has entered her Eden, and the husband declines to return to his wife and children. She asks, "Has the law no pity for a deserted wife and mother; is there not a law known as 'Restitution of Conjugal Rights?'"

Curiously enough, such a case came up in the District of Columbia courts last week. I do not know whether this law is in effect in all states, but my correspondent who asks if the law has no pity would do well to inquire.

The Washington lady, whose name I shall not give, told the court through her attorney that her husband had forced her to leave their apartment after he had become interested in another woman. She declared she left their home "reluctantly and unwillingly."

The husband, who appears to have been frankness itself, told her that he "would not live with her if she were the last woman in the world." The wife declined to consider his plea for divorce and has since attempted a reconciliation which has failed. She then demanded that the law take a hand in the matter and force the unwilling husband to return to her. That did not mean necessarily that the lady in question was dying of love.

Such a suit in the District of Columbia may mean only that a recent decision of the United States court of appeals has a certain bearing on this case. The appellate court ruled that a married person who deserted his mate could obtain a divorce after five years on grounds of voluntary separation, if the abandoned person had failed to make reconciliation efforts.

It was pointed out that even though the court ruled against the unnamed petitioner and declined to compel her husband to return to her, the suit was sufficient evidence of an attempted reconciliation, which would prevent her husband from getting a divorce in the nation's capital on the grounds of voluntary separation.

The decision of the appellate court, concerning "Restitution of Conjugal Rights" has brought to this column several divergent opinions. "If he wanted to go, I'd help him find his hat," writes another lady. Here's her spunky letter:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"Jim and I have been married for twelve years. We have two children and I think our family is happier than the average. But let Jim even hint that he'd like to live apart from the boys and me, I'd help him find his hat, pack his suitcase, and would even be willing to tell 'the other woman' his favorite dishes, and that she must not mind his untidy ways around the house.

"When there is any compulsory element about love, it ceases to be love. "'Mrs. Pepper'."

Exercise to Have Slim Figure

By MME. QUI VIVE

When fat cells distribute themselves over the feminine frame, and proportions are fairly good, a woman can endure them. She just looks heavier than she should. But when they select one special nesting place, as often happens, they throw the silhouette completely out of form and they are the dickens to get rid of. Sometimes it is a roll of fat beneath the breasts. Or expansion goes on at a great pace in the mid-section, increasing the waistline measurement and putting adipose eaves on the hips. Very often the body will retain the youthful outline except at the thighs and, if hips remain normal, that's about the worst anatomical grief of all. They are curves that are hopelessly misplaced.

Corsetieres, with ears close to the ground so as to catch news from the high moguls of dress, have lengthened foundation garments; the idea is to convey the appearance of a long torso. Thighs and hips are feeling the pinch all right. That Mrs. Plumpie can make top-legs look neater by selecting the proper harness is proved time and again in the fitting room. If she has not the will, poor dear, to limit the intake of adipose building food elements she can seek help from the corset specialist. Good points are accentuated, poor ones are camouflaged.

The lady of wide build must consider the slick foundation garment as something that just tides her along. She might as well get down to brass tacks, delete the excess tissue and be pleased with herself. No easy job, we acknowledge. It is a long, long trail to follow, but in time the reward will be won. Oncoming birthdays are no help. Fat cells love company; they are great little community builders.

If exercise starts when muscles are still elastic the war is over more quickly than when they have become softened. Whatever movements cause them to contract and relax will tone them and, as they become stronger, adipose tissue will be absorbed.

Exercise 1—For thigh reduction: Lie flat on the floor lifting one leg, keeping the knee rigid. Send the toes to the right, then to the left, stretching the muscles and touching the floor at the farthest possible distance. Roll the body with the leg. Death on excess hip luggage. Rolls them hips away.

Exercise 2: Stand erect, hands on hips. Lift on the toes, squat, rise on the toes. Send the knees out at the sides. You will feel a strong muscle pull from knees to hips.

Exercise 3: Same position as second exercise. Swing the right foot forward with a quick jerk of the leg muscles. Swing the foot back as far as you can. Six times with one foot, six with the other and repeat.

Dishes for Bridal Meal Suggested

By BETSY NEWMAN

Chicken and strawberry dessert! These two receipts are good enough to be served for a bridal breakfast or dinner if you like.

Today's Menu.

Italian Chicken
Mashed or Riced Potatoes or
New Potato Balls, creamed
Green Peas
Lettuce and Watercress with
French Dressing
Strawberry Turret Tops Coffee

* * *

Italian Chicken.

1 chicken
1½ pints water
Seasoning of salt, pepper
1 egg yolk
½ cup olive oil
1 small onion, thinly sliced
3 teaspoons cornstarch.

Cut chicken into pieces as for fricassee and cook in just enough water to cover, adding salt and pepper when it is about half done. Remove from pan and let chicken become quite cold; then dry each piece thoroughly. Heat ½ cup olive oil in shallow frying pan, add onion to it, and when smoking hot put in chicken a little at a time, and cook until golden brown. When all is cooked, add to remaining oil 1¼ cups of the liquor in which the chicken was cooked, bring to boiling point and thicken with cornstarch rubbed smooth with a little cold water. Cook 5 minutes, and just before serving add the yolk of the egg and more seasoning, if it is required. Pour sauce over chicken and serve.

Strawberry Turret Tops.

1-3 cup shortening.
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup sifted flour
1½ teaspoons all-phosphate baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup milk
Pink food coloring
1 quart strawberries
½ cup heavy cream.

Cream shortening thoroughly, add sugar gradually and whipped cream until light and fluffy; add egg and beat well. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Press several strawberries through a coarse sieve and add to milk to make 1-3 cup. Add liquid alternately with dry ingredients to shortening and egg mixture, mixing well after each addition. If desired, add drop of food coloring to make delicate pink. Bake in 3-inch greased muffin tins in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 25 minutes. When cakes are cool, remove center by cutting a cone-shaped piece from top with sharp knife. Crush strawberries and sweeten to taste with powdered sugar (saving a few whole berries for garnishing). Fill center of cake with crushed berries, replace cut-out cake, garnish with whipped cream and whole berries. Serves 6.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, June 24

THIS DAY may be notable for marked progress, with profit and security attained by breaking away from old methods and inaugurating new, even revolutionary, methods, judging by both lunar and solar aspects. This initiative, with the audacity to cast out routine and traditional ideas and tactics, should come to the attention of influential personages and may bring work in collaboration with these in community or public interest as well as for private advancement and gain. Nevertheless, the ways must be steady and sound rather than impulsive.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of definite advancement and progress, with public as well as private gain, largely by employing fresh tactics and daring to abandon the traditional, obsolete and routine. Such bold work may prosper for the community or group welfare and gain the cooperation of powerful persons or institutions. But these demand soundness, clear plans, and steadiness rather than reckless, impetuous and too aggressive action. Also there will be need for vigilance as to deception.

A child born on this day should have many qualifications for steady and enduring security if he dare abandon worn out ways and means and employ radical measures for collective or public progress as well as private gain.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

IF I HAD NOT been tensed and ready for that jerk of the gangster's feet by the man beneath the bed, I am afraid I never should have lived to see the rest of the drama.

For the tiny ping of the bullet from his silencer pistol, trained upon my head, followed by only the fraction of a second the lurch of his body. But in that instant I had grasped his wrist and deflected his aim upward, a feat I never could have accomplished, of course, if the man had not been off guard.

That he was cobra-like in his quickness and resourcefulness I was to discover by the next instant. For even as his feet went out from under him, in some almost miraculous manner he twisted himself toward the bed instead of the floor, so quickly that he was able to grab my body and pull it down so that it fell over his as he crashed to the floor.

Madge in Terror

I held to his wrist as he went, for nothing seemed of so much importance as keeping that murderous hand away from my face.

But I lived a thousand years of terror in the next half-second. For slowly, surely, that hand began to bend back again, and I felt a wave of fear such as I have experienced but once or twice in my life.

Then the room was full of blinding light, and men sprang toward the gangster from every direction.

One twisted the gun from his bending hand, the others dove for his feet and the upper part of his body. But for just the moment necessary for him to stage a particularly fiendish bit of action, both his hands were free.

With a movement like lightning, he put them around my neck, twisting and throttling in maniacal fury.

"You double-crossing little —" he babbled, using some of the foulest epithets I have ever heard. But I did not hear all of them, for I was fast losing consciousness, although it had been but a few seconds since his feet had been jerked from under him.

And then there was the sound of a blow which I dimly realized must have come from a blackjack in the hands of the leader of my father's men.

The gangster's body slumped to one side and Gus and another man lifted me clear of him. But his clutching fingers had to be undone one by one before I was laid gently back on the bed again, while Gus rushed up with a glass of water.

But I shook my head, for I knew it would be minutes before I could swallow anything. Nor could I speak, I found, when I tried to answer Gus, who was babbling excitedly: "You all right, Mis' Graham" over and over again.

I bobbed my head up and down, and then went through a pantomime which immediately brought me pencil and paper from the desk. Then I hastily scribbled a message which I handed to Gus.

"I am perfectly all right," the note read, "but I don't want to talk for a little while."

Gus read the message and looked at me worriedly.

"Your father would say you must have a doctor," he said. "Which one would you like? I will call him up right away."

Gangster Still Unconscious

"I will have the house physician look at it in a very few minutes," I wrote. "But just now, cover up that man, until he comes to his senses and we decide what to do with him."

I picked up the outside coverlet of the bed and handed it to Gus, who draped it over the unconsciops figure of the gangster. But first he handed my note to the leader of the men, who nodded his approval and watched me while I wrote another message.

"Please stand in front of him, so he cannot be seen by anyone coming through the door from the other suite. I do not wish Mrs. Veritzen to be shocked or alarmed. And then I wish Gus to go to the other suite and ask Mr. and Mrs. Veritzen to come through here to my living room. But I do not wish him to tell them anything about what has happened here, except that I am all right, and wish to see them as soon as possible."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

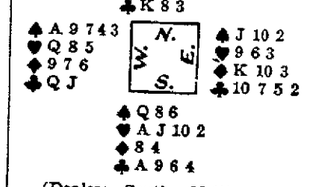
BY

Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

UNBLOCK THAT SUIT!

"BLOCK THAT kick!" which we all chanted at football games, is no more important to that competition than "Unblock that suit!" is to bridge. It is a slogan of equal value to both the offense and the defense. Its use is more frequent at No Trump than suit play, but it can decide the fate of contracts of either kind. On the defense against No Trump, if your partner shows length in a particular suit, it is usually your job to put one of your highest cards on each of the early tricks, so you may leave him with a winner in the late stages.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

When West led his spade 4 against this contract in a duplicate tournament, South called the K from dummy at two different tables where the hand began the same way. At one of those tables, East then played the 2. The declarer then led his heart 4 to the A and finessed the diamond J to East's K. The latter fired back his spade J, South covering with the Q and the A winning. Now the spade 3 was offered by West, East having to win it with the 10. That blocked the suit. Unable to lead it again, he chose a club to the K, and South then ran four tricks in diamonds, another club and two in hearts, making an extra trick.

At the other table, when West led his spade 4 and the K went from dummy, East began unblocking by playing his 10. The second trick was the same lead to the heart A, and the third was the same diamond finesse, losing to the K. But this time, when East returned his J, there was no way for South to keep the defenders from running the suit, as East's 2 was lower than West's 9. Thus four spade tricks and one in diamonds beat the contract.

Keep your eyes open for such factors, and your alertness will be worth a lot of tricks to you.

Swearing By Child Can Be Halted

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D

Almost never in this column do I quote from an anonymous letter. But here is one that seems to deserve a place.

"Dear Dr. Myers:—I was interested to see your reply to a reader who asked if it was fair for a father to expect his young son not to swear when he himself often swears in that young man's presence . . .

"My father was a simply grand person, but he had been brought up roughly, and profanity was an integral part of his regular conversation. You know the type, I am sure. He never even knew he was using profanity, he was so trained to that sort of speech.

"My mother was the super-refined type of the Victorian era and a real lady besides. She taught us that it was too bad that Papa used swear words, but that he had been brought up differently from us so it was all right for him, because, although he tried hard not to use these words, they slipped out before he knew it and it wasn't really his fault. For us, of course, it was different and naturally we would not talk that way.

Teaching Worked

"My brothers are now men in their fifties and never in all my life, in all sorts of circumstances and under every sort of strain and trial, have I ever heard any one of them use profanity.

"None of us ever felt any criticism of my father for his profanity, and all of us have respected and tried to imitate his many splendid traits, but we have not felt that we needed to imitate his shortcomings also."

This often happens. The influence of a wise, tolerant, loving mother and wife can compensate for such ills in a father and husband. The mother won her children to her ideals and point of view and she helped them appreciate the mountain of good in that father in comparison to the profanity. I'm not condoning his weakness, just not condemning the whole father for a small part of him.

Other Corrective Measures

Apparently this father never cursed people nor abused them. Many who presume to be almost saints will violently hurt their own loved ones in words that are conventionally proper.

During recent months I have received a number of letters about children who swear abusively at their parents. These distress me.

If your child uses abusive language try to remain completely calm and wait until both he and you are entirely self-controlled. Then in your tenderest tones you might lead him to choose to control his tongue next time he feels enraged.

The first time you hear your young child (under 4) call you or any body else an ugly name, give him instantly a good smacking, and always punish him for the offense. With adequate discipline during his early years in an atmosphere of refinement, sympathy and love, he will hardly then or later become addicted to profanity.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. .. boy 7 years old, "in the second grade and an A plus pupil . . . is a poor eater, and I must feed him like a baby. If he isn't fed by me he will go without eating for days."

A. You have not let him go without eating enough days and he probably got food between meals. He is just too smart for you, or you are too dull for him. He has you bound in chains. There are many more mothers just like you. Let him starve till he feeds himself.

Q. "My son 10 years old seems to be cowardly. He is large for his age. What shall I do?"

A. Find someone to give him boxing lessons. Encourage him to learn play skills with other boys his age. Don't shame him for his cowardice. Set the stage for him to gain a bit of courage and then capitalize on it. If he is overweight you should take him to a gland specialist. Might be well to so in any event.

HITLER SENDS NAZI ARMIES TO BATTLE AGAINST RUSSIA

Another Big Sunday Scoop!!

The tremendous Sunday Dawn news of Hitler's move against Russia was presented to Mansfield and North Central Ohio exclusively by the Sunday Edition of the News-Journal. Our early Sunday morning news deadlines (hours later than all metropolitan Sunday papers) again gave News-Journal readers the latest News–Complete!

News makes Readers! And Readers are Buyers! It's a fact as simple as Two and Two makes Four. The Sunday News-Journal week after week brings the News complete to Mansfield and North Central Ohio. Week upon week the readers of the Sunday News-Journal increase. In Mansfield, in Shelby, in Bellville, in Mt. Gilead, in Shenandoah, in Greenwich and in between and beyond for 50 miles around folks are reading and depending on the Sunday edition of the News-Journal. These folks who read the Sunday News-Journal are the very same folks who buy shirts and rakes, automobiles and roofing, dresses and flour in Mansfield stores. They are the same folks who require dental and eye care, put their furs in storage, sometimes need money to pay taxes and enjoy an evening at the theater. These folks comprise the great, rich North Central Ohio market,–they are attracted by what they read,–and they read the Sunday edition of the News-Journal,–and Sunday advertisers meet them in their stores buying on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Those London publications are wonderful, sometimes. A night club owner got a clipping from the Tatler the other day. Under a picture of Ethel, Sam and Jack Barrymore Colt was a little story of how the three Barrymores had come to see Ethel Barrymore make her debut as "a night club singer!" The clipping also mentioned that Miss Barrymore was appearing in a play "The Corn Is Green." Miss B. will undoubtedly be glad to hear it.

Rosemary Cox (Mrs. Leslie Harris) is furious at photog Murray Korman for releasing private pictures of her wedding reception to the newspapers. They were supposed to be taken for her own candid wedding album.

Jack Kriendler, of "21" the hoss enthusiast, won the airplane that was raffled off at the RAF benefit party at the Hines Airline restaurant. Now he's trying to figure out how he can put a saddle on a plane!

Ship news reporters here are writhing under a near-war censorship . . . The new Mrs. Victor Mature (Martha Kemp) will take instructions in the Catholic faith in preparation for the church ceremony they'll have performed in Louisville.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — "Out of the Fog." Screenplay by Robert Rossen, Jerry Wald and Richard Macaulay, from Irwin Shaw's play, "The Gentle People." Directed by Anatole Litvak. Principals: Ida Lupino, John Garfield, Thomas Mitchell, Eddie Albert, George Tobias, John Qualen, Aline MacMahon, Jerome Cowan, Odette Myrtil, Leo Gorcey, Robert Homans, Bernard Gorcey, Paul Harvey.

"This play is a fairy tale with a moral," wrote Irwin Shaw in preface to his work. "In it justice triumphs and the meek prove victorious over arrogant and violent men. The author does not pretend that this is the case in real life."

Warner Bros., too, have a foreword to their screen version. In their simple tale of a small, gentle people in Brooklyn, oppressed by arrogant and violent men, the gentle people of the earth may take (they hope) comfort and their oppressors' warning.

The "moral" is in the film, too, which doesn't prevent it from being a corking little melodrama with first-rate characterizations and no little suspense.

The "gentle people" are Jonah (Mitchell) and Olaf (Qualen), whose dreary lives are made bearable, four nights a week, when they go fishing in their little boat and can forget their troubles in dreams of Florida's waters. On the scene appears a petty racketeer (Garfield), demanding tribute of $5 a week to "protect" their boat. Being gentle, and old, they pay. The racketeer, a slick tough hombre, catches Jonah's daughter in range of his roving eye, infatuates her with his worldliness. The girl (Lupino) throws over the good boy (Albert) and, in spite of herself, agrees to take a trip with her new boy friend. That, plus added indignities from the racketeer, forces Jonah and Olaf to take ungentle steps.

In the film's principal departure from the play, the death of the persecutor, in the little boat far out in the bay at night, is an accident instead of murder. But the "gentle people" triumph all the more happily for the change, and I think you'll find them pleasant company.

HOUSE BURNED

GALION — An early morning blaze Sunday burned to the ground the one and a half story frame house belonging to the Christian Durtschi estate, off of West Railroad street.

The house was vacant, and located just outside the city limits, making it impossible for firemen to lay fire hose to fight the blaze which started from an undetermined source. The fire department was summoned at 12:30 a. m. Sunday. The loss was not determined immediately, but it will be partially covered by insurance.

GIVE RED ARMY MEAGER CHANCE AGAINST NAZIS

Military Experts Doubt Red Might as Well as Profit In Hitler Victory.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Red army was conceded only the slimmest chances by military experts today in its stand against the armed might of Nazi Germany, but considerable doubt prevailed as to the immediate advantages Hitler could reap from his grandiose Russian adventure.

The initial reaction of well-informed specialists was that the invasion of Russia constituted the first open acknowledgement of the blitzkrieg's failure—Germany, despairing of the total "lightning" victory she sought, was striking to assure the supply of food and raw materials she needs for a long war.

The sudden thrust into Russia also was regarded as tantamount to an admission that Germany still felt herself unequal to the supreme test with her avowed No. 1 enemy—the invasion and conquest of the British Isles.

Experts saw at least three temporary results in the general war picture:

1—An easing of German pressure in the North African theater, for it appeared unlikely that the Reich would be sending additional armored reinforcements to General Rommel in Libya;

2—A relaxation of the invasion threat against the British Isles;

3—More time for Britain and for the productive facilities of the United States.

It was conceded that these results may be short-lived, because of odds the German war machine is believed to have in its favor. However, it was said, every day is precious for Britain and the United States at this critical stage of the conflict.

There is no unanimity as to how long the Red army, for years a military enigma, might be expected to stand against the Germans. Some experts cited the performance of the Russian forces in the war with Finland and spoke in terms of a "walkover." Others said that if the Soviet could keep its army "in being," Germany might win large sections of territory without scoring a knockout.

EXHIBIT ROSES

Mansfielders To Hear Talk By Flower Specialist.

Melvin Wyant, rose specialist of Mentor, will discuss the subject, "Roses" in a Garden Center lecture at the Mansfield Public Library Tuesday at 8 p. m.

Preceding the talk there will be an informal rose show, open to the public. Mansfielders are invited to exhibit specimen roses which must be placed at the library by 5 p. m.

Ribbons will be awarded to outstanding exhibits. John Kullman, Mansfield horticulturist, will judge the exhibit. The rose show is directed by Mrs. Gene Zediker, of the Buckeye club.

Roses from many Mansfield gardens will be on display including specimens from the gardens of Louis Bromfield, Charles Nail, and Mrs. Gerald Moore.

The display at the Garden Center this month has been under the direction of the Buckeye Garden club with Mrs. Thornton Lake in charge.

DEATH CLOSES STORMY CAREER

Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell Dies In Hospital After Sunday Boat Trip.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—Death has ended the stormy political career of Martin L. O'Donnell.

The 54-year-old sheriff of Cuyahoga county, largest in Ohio, succumbed suddenly in Charity hospital yesterday of a heart attack brought on by acute indigestion.

He died only a few hours after he had been cheered by 2,300 employes of his office and other supporters who were his guests on a Lake Erie boat ride.

The gray-haired former mayor and councilman of Garfield Heights and county sheriff since Jan. 4, 1937, had been the object of much criticism for his law enforcement policies.

The Cleveland Bar association, which recently instituted formal ouster proceedings against the sheriff, said that the action naturally would be dropped in view of his death.

Coroner Samuel R. Gerber was appointed acting sheriff by Common Pleas Judge Harrison W. Ewing, presiding on the Cuyahoga criminal bench. A successor to hold the office until the November, 1942, election will be chosen by the county commissioners, probably this week.

O'Donnell, whose brother Michael F., is Cleveland postmaster, was taken sick Saturday night shortly after he left the steamer City of Detroit III upon which he had held the boat ride.

He complained of pains in his chest and was taken to the hospital where death followed in a few hours.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at St. John's Catholic cathedral.

FORMER GALION RESIDENT DIES

Jacob F. Castle, 71, Succumbs After Long Illness.

GALION—Jacob F. Castle, 71, former Galion resident, died in Cleveland Sunday following an illness of the past several years.

Born Sept. 22, 1869, he was a retired real estate broker.

Surviving are his widow; four sons, Daniel, Willard, Eugene and Clayton, all of Cleveland; a brother, C. A. Castle, Galion, and a sister, Zoa Sitzer, Detroit.

The body will be removed to the Snyder funeral home where funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Rev. O. E. Knepp, pastor of the United Presbyterian church will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

PICNIC HELD

CRESTLINE — The Women's auxiliary to the Railway Mail association, Crestline branch, held a picnic for members and their families at South park, Mansfield, Saturday evening as a concluding feature of their series of meetings.

Attending from Crestline were Mr. and Mrs. F. C. McNeal and family, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Marshall and family, Mrs. E. G. Anderson and son Robert, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Speelman, T. H. McCreary and sons.

CONVICT LEAPS TO DEATH ON FLOOR OF DEATH ROW IN PEN

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Ten days before his scheduled electrocution in Ohio penitentiary for a Youngstown beer hall slaying, Emil Rosovitz, alias Jack Randall, plunged 40 feet to his death on the concrete floor of the "death row" cell block after overpowering a guard.

Warden Frank D. Henderson said the 31year-old prisoner climbed up metal ventilator bars to the top of the cell block in view of convicts in six tiers of cells, shouted "I'm going" and leaped directly in front of his own cell.

Awaiting death in the electric chair July 2 for the fatal shooting of John V. Donnelly in a holdup last Aug. 31, Rosovitz escaped his cell while taking his Sunday morning exercises in the barred runway adjoining death room.

Henderson said Rosovitz asked Guard Earl L. Kunkle to bring him a glass of water and when Kunkle opened the runway door to hand it in Rosovitz shoved the door, pinning the guard against another door.

The prisoner then raced to the north wall and climbed out of reach.

Wayne Thompson, 24, convicted slayer of a Columbus grocer, is the only other prisoner in death row.

Rosovitz entered the penitentiary last Dec. 12 after conviction by a three-judge court. Originally sentenced to die April 4, he received two stays of execution while his case was appealed to the Ohio supreme court which declined a review June 11.

FUNERAL SET

Rites For Mrs. Nettie Tobias To Be Held Wednesday.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nettie Keister Tobias, 80, a resident of Mansfield for over half a century, who died Saturday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. R. Johnson, 618 South Diamond street, will be held at the Jones Memorial Wednesday at 3 p. m. Rev. C. L. Kern, of the South Main Street Evangelical church, will officiate. Burial will be made in Red Haw cemetery.

Mrs. Tobias was born at Hayesville, O., Nov. 7, 1860. She came to Mansfield as a bride of the late William Tobias more than 50 years ago.

She is survived by four sons, Eugene J. Tobias of Garden Grove, Calif., George H., of Mansfield; David S., of Seattle, Wash., and Harter Tobias, of Alhambra, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Kathryn J. Johnson and Mrs. William Saylor, both of Mansfield; ten grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Snyder funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. Jack Mellick officiating. Burial will be in Lexington cemetery.

J. C. RITTER DIES AT HOME SUNDAY

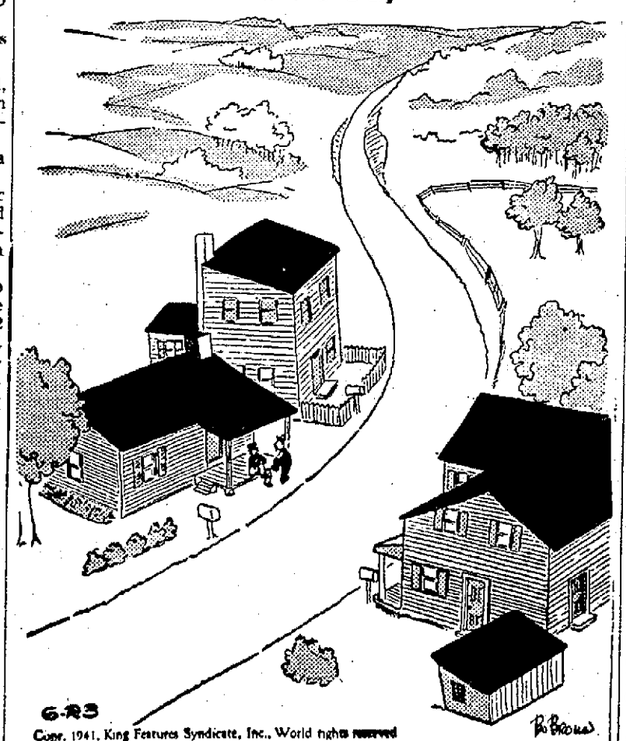
Native of Richland County Succumbs; Rites Set For Tuesday.

LEXINGTON—John C. Ritter, 62, a native of Richland county, died at his home in Washington township near here last night after a lingering illness.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna Ritter; four daughters, Mrs. David Krauter of Lexington, Mrs. Albert Brooks of Cleveland, Mrs. Ray Helms of Columbus, and Mrs. Harry Robison of Bellville; two sons, Cilyde Ritter of Mansfield and Homer Ritter at home. Thirteen grandchildren also survive.

The body was removed to the Snyder funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. Jack Mellick officiating. Burial will be in Lexington cemetery.

Laff-a-Day



"I guess we can't have our parade, after all. Jeb Meyer's boy's been rejected!"

Up and Down THE STREET

Mr. and Mrs. Axel Poulsen of Astoria, N. Y., had their vacation cut short in Mansfield last night. Mr. Poulsen, stricken with appendicitus, underwent an operation in General hospital. Although his condition is reported as good by nurses today, the couple is stranded because Mrs. Poulsen does not drive. Jack Berger, assistant secretary of the Richland County Auto club, said this morning that Mrs. Poulsen could get a permit to drive in Ohio and all other states except New York. However, as soon as she arrived in her native state, Mrs. Poulsen must apply there for a learner's permit to continue.

Eugene Smart was a little astonished when a man came into his store Saturday and insisted that he go through his stock of phonograph records to find two numbers sung by Richard Maxwell, a former Mansfielder who gained fame in the music world. Smart found them, however, and then asked the customer if he knew Maxwell. "I am Maxwell," was the reply. The former Mansfielder who has made a number of records and appeared on a network radio program, was in the city over the week-end to visit relatives.

It's unusual for a man to be thankful for being arrested but one Shelby man should be today. Mansfield police found the man in an intoxicated condition in his car parked on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks early yesterday. They hauled the car away and booked the driver on an intoxication charge. If police hadn't arrived in time, the driver might have suffered serious injury or possibly death.

OFFICIALS TO SEEK CAUSE OF FOUNDERING

Craft's Inspectors Will Be Principal Witnesses; Rites Are Held.

(By United Press)

PORTSMOUTH, N. Y. — Navy officials arranged today for a court of inquiry to seek the cause of the foundering of the submarine O-9 and loss of her entire crew of 33.

A naval spokesman disclosed that principal witnesses would include inspectors at the O-9's New London, Conn., base who reportedly certified to her fitness recently.

Rear Admiral Richard Edwards, Atlantic fleet submarine commander who directed futile efforts to reach the O-9 crew in their steel tomb 26 miles at sea, revealed that first reports concerning the O-9's activities at "swept" testing grounds off here were not entirely accurate.

According to Edwards the O-9 and her sister-submarines O-6 and O-10 cruised to the Portsmouth trial area and conducted a series of underwater tests.

At 7:36 a. m. (EST) Friday the O-9 began a lengthy submergence, driving through the water with only her periscope showing. Officers aboard the other ships watched the tests but glanced away momentarily. When they turned back the O-9's periscope had disappeared.

Edwards said the O-9 tests were expected to last two hours so there was no immediate concern. Reports that the lost submarine fired a black smoke bomb were incorrect, he said. The bomb was fired by one of the other "O-boats" to attract attention.

Edwards said so far as he had been able to learn, the O-9 gave no signals, reported no trouble and attempted no communications after she disappeared from view.

Naval observers believed an explosion might have occurred in engine or battery rooms to send the ship plunging to the mud bottom 440 feet down where water pressure crumpled her plate-steel hull.

It was believed the two officers and 31 men died almost immediately when the O-9 relic of World war days, recommissioned because of the present emergency, was subjected to the 440-foot pressure. The O-9's hull was built to stand pressure at only 200 feet.

At noon Sunday the O-9 crew was given up for dead and salvage operations were abandoned.

Two divers—R. M. Metzger and Claude Conger—had completed the deepest working dive ever attempted, to reach bottom.

Conger had touched his hand against a "jagged, dark object" and had summoned Metzger to feel it. For a minute or two they explored their find like blind men. Then they reported that they thought they had reached the submarine.

It was then that navy officials concluded that further attempts at rescue would prove futile and dangerous.

Ceremonies honoring the submarine's dead were conducted at the tragedy's scene by Secretary of Navy Frank Knox.

Mansfield Youth Plays Drums For Goodman's Band

Ted Bare, youthful Mansfield drummer who got the thrill of a lifetime the other night when he played in Benny Goodman's orchestra, had a promise today from Goodman that he would help the young drummer get a job with a "name" orchestra.

Bare, who was graduated from Senior high school three weeks ago, played five numbers with Goodman's famous band last Thursday night at Cedar Point.

After the dance program, Goodman, one of the nation's top-notch swing band leaders, praised young Bare for his ability and introduced him to the orchestra manager. Both Goodman and his manager told the youth they would attempt to find him a job with an orchestra.

Bare, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bare, 613 Highland avenue, played with Mansfield dance orchestras while he was in high school. He has been planning to attend a school for drummers in New York. He is 18.

Bare's chance to play in the Goodman band resulted from his acquaintance with the drummer who is from Columbus.

CONFER DEGREES

COLUMBUS—(INS—Degrees in the Knights of Columbus were conferred on 259 candidates in an all-Ohio initiation service attended by more than 1,000 delegates. Ceremonies were conducted by State Deputy John D. King of Bellefontaine and Ray T. Miller, supreme director of Cleveland.

If present plans work out, the Mansfield Braves and Lima Pandas will engage in a unique double-header on July 4, playing the first game at Lima in the afternoon and the second at Galion at night.

The Galion encounter is planned as the big feature of the July 4th celebration sponsored by the Galion Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Since no double-header was originally scheduled for the holiday, the Braves and Pandas will have to move up a future tilt for the Galion date.

* * *

The ball players will be guests of the Galion Junior C. of C. at an ox roast before the game.

When the noble athletes heard about the ox roast they told the Galionites: "Yes, we'll be very happy to have an oxburger on you."

* * *

Even the umpires should like it, seeing something else getting roasted for once.

Phil Renie, Mansfield Braves booster of 26 Wolfe avenue, sends a letter from Madison, Wis., that fits in very well here:

"I happened to be here in Madison on business Saturday night and saw the Madison Blues of the Three I league in action against Moline, Ill." writes Renie.

"I wish to state that no better brand of ball is played in this Class B circuit than is played by our own Mansfield Braves. Attendance here is poor, prices are high, and the umpires are just as bad if not worse than our umps.

"And by the way, Hank Edwards, a former Brave, is with Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and is leading the league with a .383 batting average.

"I also had the pleasure of talking with Harry Stuhldreher, coach of the University of Wisconsin, whom I know very well since he is from my home town of Massillon.

"He is doing all right here, and is liked by all. I hope when I return I find our Braves on top."

Thanks, Phil, for filling this column. Maybe I should have put your letter at the top, but the Braves on top was what you asked for, wasn't it?

The Tribe's 6 to 0 shutout of the Washington Nats yesterday kept them two games in the lead over the Yankees, and insured them from losing first place on their current eastern tour unless they drop all three games to Boston.

* * *

As the road trip now stands, Cleveland has lost three to the Yankees and two to Washington, against three wins from Philadelphia and one from Washington.

* * *

Bob Feller got No. 15 yesterday, his fifth shutout of the season, and helped his teammates in the scoring drive. He allowed seven hits, walked only one, and struck out six. Only three Nats reached second, and one got to third on an error.

The Tribe's leading hitter, Heath, pulled his average up to .380 by getting three out of four, which made 13 hits in the last 19 times at bat.

There was a happy hangover today among the baseball-batty boys and girls of Pa Knickerbocker's Village.

* * *

From the shores of the Harlem all the way to the banks of the gorgeous Gowanus in Brooklyn, the folks who go in for the sport of hit-and-run were giving out with hoppla and hurrah over the jobs their heroes did Sunday.

The fans were singing the praises of Joe Di Maggio and company of Yankee Stadium for smashing a Major League home-run record; they were even thinking of naming a street after not-so-sweet William Terry for the way his Giants knocked off the St Louis Cardinals in both ends of a doubleheader, and, as for Brooklyn, well Larry MacPhail could be elected mayor by a landslide and have Leo the Lip Durocher for his police chief as a reward for the double job the Daffiness boys did on Cincinnati

The Yanks were two games away from the Cleveland Indians in the American loop as a result of their 5-4 beating they handed Detroit's Tigers. But the big thing was that Joe DiMaggio and Red Rolfe homered, and this made it 18 straight tilts in which the Bronx bombers have exploded one or more of their subtle socks, thereby whiping out the record of 17 in a row which the Tigers chalked up as an all-time high only a year ago. What's more, DiMaggio's poke marked the 35th straight contest in which he has hit safely, leaving him only six away from George Sisler's modern Major league record.

With a record Cincinnati crowd of 35,792 fans on hand, the first game against the Rhinelanders went 16 innings before Brooklyn grabbed it, 2-1, on Dixie Walker's squeeze bunt. Paul Derringer pitched the whole way, but, as usual, the Reds couldn't hit the size of their dinner checks for him Kirby Higbe found holes in the Reds' bats in the nightcap, served up a three-hitter and walted in, 3-2

Meanwhile, King Carl Hubbell oiled up his left, or business, arm and knocked off the Cards for the Giants, 4-3, in the first encounter in St. Louis, and young Johnny Wittig threw in a five-hitter to take the nightcap 3-2

The Cleveland ball club, otherwise known as Bobby Feller, posted his fifth shutout of the season in whipping the Washington Senators, 6-0, with a seven-hit performance, thereby reaching the halfway mark in his campaign to hit the 30-game-winner bulls-eye this year.

* * *

The White Sox and Philadelphia Athletics traded shutouts. Chicago won the first, 14-0, behind Ted Lyons, and the Quaker City set captured the second, 3-0, back of Phil Marchildon.

Jimmy Foxx' 11th homer led the way to a 7-5 Red Sox victory in the Boston opener, while the St. Louis Browns banged out 13 hits for 12-3 edge in the afterpiece.

Boston's Braves whipped the Chicago Cubs, 6-5 on a two-run ninth-inning rally, and 3-2 on Alva Javery's six-hit hurling.

Pittsburgh downed the Phillies, 4-1, in their opener behind Truett Sewell's steady tossing, and the Phils took the nightcap, 7-4.

YOUNGEST CHAMP TAKES GOLF TOURNAMENT

ST LOUIS—(AP)—Eighteen-year-old Frank Stranahan of Toledo is the youngest champion in the 41-year history of the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament.

* * *

The Ohio youth who also holds the Arizona state championship treated par and finalist John Barnum of Chicago with equal disdain in capturing the Trans title yesterday.

Frankie had an eight-under-par 64 to finish the morning round 7 up and stayed to even figures on the 13 afternoon holes for a 6 and 5 victory.

Ear Keeps Rigney For Sox

Dr. Samuel Pollack of Chicago is shown above examining the right ear of Pitcher Johnny Rigney of the White Sox who was rejected by the United States army as physically unfit because of a chronic perforation of the right ear drum. Rigney is the first major league baseball player of note to be rejected by an army medical board.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
(Pinch-Hitting for Eddie Brietz)

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service) — Detroit baseball writers apparently knew what was going to happen to Dick Wakefield, the U. of Michigan mauler, even before he accepted that $45,000 bonus to sign with the Tigers. . . . When he heard of the Indians' offer to top any other bid by $5,000, one of them grunted, "Briggs will probably call Bradley's bluff again." . . . Mike Jacobs is the sport gossip's "Star of the week"—on the ground that he's the world champion promoter.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Jerry Mitchell: New York Post: "The most startling news in weeks is the announcement that the Washington Senators are about to buy the Milwaukee club of the American association. Either the price is $1.49 or it's the weather we're having."

AROUND AND ABOUT

Frankie Parker credits his showing in the National clay courts tennis to a "new" flat forehand drive. Seems to us he'd had a new one every season for about six years, but it hasn't shown up at Forest Hills yet. . . . Mike Jacobs won't take any more fights to Washington until they find a loophole in the local law so that he can get a promoter's license.

WINNIE CLECKNER WINS BASS PRIZE

Bowler Winnie Cleckner won the first week's prize in the Yuncker big bass derby with a three and three-quarter pound fish caught at Site's lake.

The derby continues for three more weeks, with prizes offered each week for the largest catch, and a grand prize will be given for the largest bass caught during the four weeks.

Safety Cabs Defeat Elyria

Two Texas Stars Rip Toledo Par

Demaret and Hogan Cop Inverness Tournament.

By FRITZ HOWELL

TOLEDO—(AP)—Jimmy Demaret and Ben Hogan enjoyed a profitable week-end of golf in the Inverness invitational four-ball matches.

The two Texans ripped 42 strokes off par in their seven rounds against as many pairs of the nation's top-flight professionals, finished three points ahead of their nearest rivals, and pocketed $1,000 each in cash—a matter of $250 a day plus expenses which included board and room.

* * *

In second place were P.G.A. Champion Byron Nelson, the host pro, and his partner, long-hitting Jimmy Thomson, who divided $1,300. Lloyd Mangrum, sporting the only moustache in the tourney, and Harold (Jug) McSpaden, were third, garnering $600 each.

* * *

Others in order of the finish: Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, $700; Horton Smith and Lawson Little, $600; Sam Byrd and Johnny Bulla, $500; Dick Metz and Clayton Haefner, $400, and Ralph Guldahl and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, $300.

Hogan, last season's leading money winner, hoisted his 1941 earnings to $10,061 to retain the No. 1 spot within $500 of the figure with which he paced the pros a year ago.

The 16 stars in their four-day jaunt around the Inverness layout, attracted about 25,000 galleryites at better than $1 each, and the customers watched the stellar shotmakers connect for 314 birdies, six eagles and a hole in one Even the last place twosome of Harrison and Guldahl was 37 under par for the route, while Mangrum-McSpaden, in third place, had the best sub-par count by knocking 44 strokes off even figures.

The professionals split up $7,000 in prize money, plus all expenses, Mangrum and McSpaden getting $100 extra for the best 18-hole round of 62, and another $200 for the most birdies, 46. Nelson and Thompson tied for the low score of 62 to gain an additional $100.

Gil Dodds of Ashland Gets All-American Track Honor

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal. —(U.P.)—Into the trophy case of the University of Southern California today went the Trojans seventh straight National Collegiate Athletic association track and field championship.

* * *

Coach Dean Cromwell's squad walked away with the annual meet here Saturday. It scored 81½ points to second-place Indiana university's 50 points and third-place California university's 49¼.

* * *

The U. S. C. runners and jumpers won the championship with strength in every division.

Only record established in the meet was in the discus throw Archie Harris of Indiana tossed the plate 174 feet, 8¾ inches, 6¼ inches better than the world mark of Germany's Willi Schroder.

Bobby Wright of Ohio State won the high hurdles in 14 seconds, and the low hurdles in 23 4.

Fred Wilt of Indiana took a tough two-mile victory over Bobby Madrid of Fresno State. Madrid and Wilt Battled for the lead for six laps before Wilt finally put him away by 10 yards, with the dark horse; Gilbert Dodds of Ashland (Ohio) another 10 yards back. Time was 9:14.4.

The National Collegiate Athletic association track and field rules committee today announced its 1941 All-American college track and field team.

The All-American team included:

Two-mile—Fred Wilt, Indiana; Gilbert Dodds, Ashland; Bobby Madrid, Fresno State.

120-yard high hurdles—Robert Wright, Ohio State; Pete Owens, Howard Payne; John Saunders, Miami.

Association Takes Day Off

(By Associated Press)

This was an open date in the American Association schedule today—one which gave players and fans alike a breathing spell and a chance to take stock of a battle royal which finds the first four clubs separated by only 36 percentage points.

* * *

Yesterday's honors went to Louisville's scrappy Colonels, who took a double header from Indianapolis 8 to 4, and 5 to 0, to race into second place, only three points behind the league leading Minneapolis Millers, who whipped St. Paul 7 to 0.

Kansas City broke even in a double header with Milwaukee, dropping the opener, 3-2 and blanking the Brewers 6 to 0 behind Al Gerheauser's six-hit hurling in the second tilt.

Columbus, now in fourth place and but 26 points back of the Blues, lost the first half of a twin bill with Toledo, 11 to 2, but rallied to break even for the day, downing the Mud Hens in the nightcap 8 to 3 as Murry Dickson chalked up his eighth victory of the season with a seven-hit pitching chore.

Colored Giants Lose at Plymouth

Plymouth defeated the Mansfield Colored Giants yesterday at Plymouth 8-4.

Plymouth's Stone gave the Giants but four hits as he struck out 12. Weber led the batsmen with three out of four. Hammons did the heavy work for the Giants on the mound and at bat where he collected two hits out of three trips.

The Plymouth Locomotives will meet the Norwalk Keller News under the arcs Thursday evening at Norwalk. Ralph Stone will hurl for Plymouth against Buck Stapels, of the News.

Inter-City Net Tourney Booked

The Mansfield tennis contingent today was invited to send its ace racket wielders to Marion (O.) for the first annual Ohio Inter-City tennis tourney to be played off on July 4, 5 and 6. The newest edition to the state's clay court classics has been launched by the Marion Tennis club and will be held at the Y. M. C. A. park and the Marion Country club.

Tennis associations in a few of Ohio's largest and a few of its smaller cities have received bids to enter one woman and two men in this tennis show. Gold trophies will be awarded winners in men's singles and doubles, women's singles and mixed doubles.

Though a new venture the Marion host proposes to make this one of the Headliners in the summer circuit of Ohio tennis events. As a challenge to visiting stars, Marion will be represented by its ace, Bob Hicks, former ninth ranking junior player.

* * *

About 20 cities are expected to send teams to take part in the tournament.

Braves Battle Pandas

Start Last Round of First Half Season.

MANSFIELD BRAVES open the last round of play in the first half season of the Ohio State league tonight when they tangle with Lima's rejuvenated Pandas at the Fairground.

While Mansfield was losing to Tiffin 6 to 2 yesterday and dropping into a third place tie with the Mud Hens, the Pandas were trimming Findlay twice, moving out of the league cellar, and reducing Findlay's second place margin to half a game.

* * *

Bob Kuzava, young left hander from Flint, Mich., made his debut on the hill for the Braves, and gave promise of future help for the Mansfield mound staff, although yesterday wasn't his lucky day.

Tiffin got to Bob for seven hits and five runs, but most of the hits were of the scratch variety. He showed good control for a southpaw and also exhibited a good curve ball.

Mansfield took a one-run lead in the second inning on singles by Moore and Salem, but Tiffin went in front in the third on a walk, an error and two singles, good for two runs.

* * *

Three more runs were shoved over by Tiffin in the fourth on four hits, and Kuzava was replaced by Jim Coleman, who made his first appearance before the home fans.

Coleman held the Hens to five hits and one run over the rest of the route, but the damage already had been done.

Mansfield got its last run in the sixth when Mutryn led off with a double against the left field wall, and came home on two infield outs.

Kuzava, just out of high school, apparently wasn't in condition to go the distance in an Ohio State league tilt, but it shouldn't take him long to reach the pink. He was yanked because he was tiring, and not because the Tiffins were treating him too roughly.

Youngstown Beats Provident Loans

Youngstown Lipschers scored their second victory of the season over Mansfield's state champion Provident Loan girls' softball club at Youngstown yesterday 5 to 1.

* * *

Mansfield held a 1 to 0 lead for the first four innings but Youngstown rallied in the next two for their five run total.

* * *

Jean Herrick got Mansfield's only extra base hit, a double.

College Golfers Vie For Honors

COLUMBUS, O. —(AP)— Their eyes glued on the National Collegiate Athletic Association Golf championships, 189 linksmen teed off in threesomes today for the first 18-hole qualifying round over the Ohio State University course.

* * *

The teamtitle, now held jointly by Princeton and Louisiana State universities, will be decided on scores in the qualifier which concludes with another 18-hole round tomorrow.

* * *

Qualifying scores also will determine the 64 players who begin match play Wednesday for the individual crown being defended by F. Dixon Brooje of the University of Virginia. Finals will be played Saturday.

The week's firing got under way yesterday with a picked 24-man team of Western college sharpshooters avenging a defeat of a year ago by downing the eastern squad 6½ to 5½ in the second annual East-West best ball match.

ST. PETER'S ALUMNI DEFEAT DAIRYMEN

St. Peter's Alumni ball club crushed Isaly's Dairymen 9-1 yesterday in an independent tilt. It was the Alumni's third straight win.

B. Brown led St. Peter's attack with two out of three, one of them a four-bagger. Stinehour and Russell sparked Isaly's batsmen each with two out of three.

THREE-HIT PITCHING SINKS BELLVILLE

Bellville Merchants' defeated the Leesville Merchants 8-0 yesterday behind the three hit pitching of B. Martin who fanned 15 Leesmen in the course of the afternoon.

Two of Leesville's three bingles were from the bat of Eckaten who took out two of three. Pry got the other bingle in two trips to the plate.

WATER COSTLY

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(INS)—A split bottle of toilet water cost $350. Mrs. Lillian E. Robinson said she dropped a bottle of toilet water on the floor of her dress shop in Stockton and sopped it up with newspapers. Fumes from the flower-scented water, ignited by the gas heater left on, caused a damage of $350 by fire.

SCHOOL BUCKETMEN GET ONE DAY TOURNEY

CEDAR POINT, O.—(AP)—Ohio's 1942 high school basketball championship finals will be a one-day tournament with only four teams competing in each class, the High School Athletic association has decided.

* * *

Tournament sites have not yet been selected although Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend said the Class B event would be held either at the Ohio State university gymnasium in Columbus or at Wittenberg college in Springfield.

* * *

The Class A site is less definite, several desirable arenas being unavailable, Townsend said.

The association decided that third placers in track and field qualifying meets would not be permitted to travel to the finals in Columbus next year.

ONTARIO SQUEEZES OUT 1-RUN VICTORY

Ontario ball club squeezed out an 8-7 win over the Fredericksburg nine yesterday at Ontario.

It was the Hammon boys all the way as they led the Ontario assault each getting three out of four and each connecting with a three-bagger.

STOCKS BOUND UPWARD AT WAR DEVELOPMENTS

Market Opening Fastest In Months as Big Blocks of Shares Move.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks bounded upward 1 to more than 4 points in today's market as Well Street interpreted as bullish the latest European war shift involving the German-Russian clash.

The opening was the fastest in months with blocks of 1,000 to 7,000 shares changing hands on the climb. Among theese was U. S. Steel which registered the largest block on a gain of 2⅜ points.

Prominent on the swing were Bethlehem Steel, American Telephone, N. Y. Central, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont, Westinghouse and Montgomery Ward.

On the industrial front market analysts studied the survey the magazine "Steel" which said that volums of sales in this field was holding to levels of the past several months, usually about 40 per cent larger than productive capacity.

The review pointed out that between 40 and 50 per cent of current inquiries for the metal carry priority certificates or photostatic copies of such certificates.

Those watching public spending indices for market clues noted figures of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics indicating that, while the cost of living is rising moderately, in terms of consumer purchasing power, income this year will be some 20 per cent higher than in 1929.

THEATERS

Merry Matrimony.

The screen's daffiest "Mr. and Mrs." team, William Powell and Myrna Loy, romp through another merry matrimony adventure in "Love Crazy," showing at the Ohio. Everything is fine until discord enters with Gail Patrick, and Myrna becomes jealous. In order to prevent her from divorcing him, Powell feigns lunacy until he finds his uproarious antics may actually land him in an asylum. The cast includes Sara Haden, Sidney Blackmere and Sig Rumann.

Hit Parade Girl.

Bonnie Baker, the "Oh Johnnie" girl of radio's Hit Parade, is prominently featured in "You're the One," sparkling film comedy at the Ritz with Jerry Colonna and Orrin Tucker's orchestra. Colonna plays the operator of a weight-reducing sanitarium who runs his establishment on night club plans. Bonnie's efforts to sing first with one orchestra, then another and her romance with Tucker motivated the plot. "Texas Ranger," is the second attraction.

Great Broadcast.

The beginning of broadcasting is depicted in "The Great Broadcast" showing at the Madison with Alice Faye, Jack Oakie and Cesar Romero in the leading roles. Production numbers embellish the show and Mack Gordon's and Harry Warren's hit tunes are sung by Alice Faye and company. The Four Inkspots, the Nicholas brothers and the Wiere brothers enliven the production with comedy and dancing. Robert Sterling and Marsha Hunt are featured in "I'll Wait For You," the second attraction.

Hal Roach Comedy.

"Road Show," Hal Roach's all-laugh comedy showing at the Park, centers around a country carnival owned by Carole Landis and inhabited by an array of screen comedians headed by Adolphe Menjou, Charles Butterworth, George E. Stone and Patsy Kelly. Menjou and John Hubbard add to the high-jinks as escapees from a swank sanitarium. "Rookies On Parade," the co-feature has Bob Crosby's orchestra, Eddie Foy, jr., and Marie Wilson in a story about a couple of rookies who would like to play Broadway.

NEW TOWN HALL

WESTBROOK, Conn. — (INS) — The 100-year-old house of Capt. Edward Stannard, famous rigger of ship masts, has been converted into a new town hall for the government of this maritime community. With its ancient paneled doors and hand-carved molding well preserved, the house, once considered one of the most imposing on the Connecticut shore, has been modernized for administrative purposes.

Officials Believe Invasion Will Mean End of Communist Led Labor Trouble.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Dies committee officials said today that they expect Germany's invasion of Russia to cause an immediate cessation of Communist-inspired strikes in United States defense industries.

Committee officials also saw in the latest war development an opportunity to gain inside information on activities of Nazis in this country.

A spokesman for the committee, which has charged that the American peace mobilization is dominated by Communists, said that the group received instructions last Thursday to abandon picketing of the White House at noon Saturday.

The same investigator, who went into the picket line at the White House and talked to pickets, said he also was informed that instructions had been issued to liquidate the peace mobilization movement. The Washington office, he said, was closed.

The assumption of committee officials was that leaders in the American Peace Mobilization had received advance information that Germany was going to attack Russia.

BOSTON — (INS) — Smallest among 12,000 students of Boston University is S. Lawrence Whipple, journalism student at the College of Business Administration. Whipple stands 4 feet, 10½ inches tall, and weighs only 80 pounds. His lack of height and weight do not interfere with his activities as is shown by his proficiency at skiing. A veteran skiing enthusiast, Whipple uses a pair of specially constructed skis.

DANGEROUS JOB

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(U.P.)—Chief E. Raymond Cato of the California State Highway patrol thinks the job should be classified as a "dangerous occupation."

He told the state legislature that 5 per cent of the highway patrolmen are continuously idle because of injuries. During 1940, he said, more than 800 injuries were sustained by the 719 officers and executives of the patrol.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—The Initiate. By Harold Gray

I TRIED! I WAS GOING TO TURN THEM OVER TO THE POLICE- BUT I MUST HAVE BEEN STUPID--WEAK-- THEY HAD GORILLAS HIDDEN BEHIND ME-
IT IS ALL RIGHT--THINK NO MORE OF IT--
6-23-41
BUT THAT FOREIGN AGENT--THAT AMERICAN TRAITOR--THEY ARE DANGEROUS--THEY BESTED ME--THEY MUST NOT BE ALLOWED TO GET AWAY-
"TO GET AWAY"? HA! HA! HA! THAT IS A GOOD ONE-
YOU LAUGH! YOU LAUGH AT ME! YOU HAVE NEVER LIKED OR TRUSTED ME! HOW CAN I PROVE--?
--PROVE THAT YOU ARE WORTH THE TRUST OF HONEST MEN? TONIGHT YOU HAVE PROVED IT-
AS TO THOSE TWO--- THEY HAVE GONE AWAY--- ---GONE FOR AWAY--- WITH THE MEGH---A TRIP FROM WHICH THEY SHALL NOT RETURN-
AND YOU, FRIEND--YOU MUST RETURN TO YOUR HOME, BEFORE YOU ARE MISSED-

INVASION OF RUSSIA SPURS ARMS EFFORT

U. S. Speeds Production as Congress Splits on Aid To Soviet Union.

lief expressed in informed quarters was that one outcome of the German thrust into Russia would be establishment of close economic cooperation among the United States, Great Britain and Russia

On the question of lease-lend aid to the Soviet, Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) was all for it.

An advocate of "affirmative" action against the Axis, Pepper asked in a statement: "Who will be so short-sighted or prejudiced among us that they would rather Hitler would strike us than to help Russia stop him?"

In the opposite camp, Senator Burton Wheeler (D-Mont.) declared last night at Highland Park, Ill., that if the country now should become involved in the conflict abroad, "We will be fighting the war for world domination by Communism."

Congress Split on Aid for Russians

WASHINGTON —(INS) —A canvass of the house and senate today revealed that congress is sharply split over the question of extending lease-lend aid to Russia in her war against Germany, but most members agree that the new conflict lessens chances of America being involved in the war

President Roosevelt, it was conceded, has full power to give aid to Russia on the same terms aid is extended to Great Britain or China. During the lease-lend fight amendments banning aid to Russia were rejected both in the senate and house.

Consistent foes of Communism and Russian recognition served notice of vigorous protests against using American arms to aid Russia. While Russia has huge stores of equipment, some members expect her to appeal for aviation gasoline

Sen. Glass (D.), a leader in the fight for British aid, voiced doubt over whether lease-lend aid should be given to Russia. "I don't know about that—Russia is not a very good credit," said Glass.

But Sen Van Nuys (D.), Ind supporter of British aid but foe of war involvement, said he is willing to aid Russia.

"If it is a bonafide war, I'd be glad to extend aid to Russia, although I don't underwrite or support the policies of either Germany or Russia," said Van Nuys. "I don't think it increases our chances of being involved I hope it is a war of extermination of both."

Rep. Fish (R.), N. Y., non-interventionist, assailed any idea of aiding Russia. He said:

"I want no alliance with Soviet Russia, direct or indirect, and I don't think that by the wildest imagination Russia could be included with those countries fighting for the cause of democracy. I think this lessens our chance of getting into war."

Sen. George (D.), Ga., chairman of the foreign relations committee, declined to comment on the question of lease-lend aid, but he pointed out that the German-Russ war gives Britain more time to prepare and the United States more time to aid her

Sen Capper (R.) Kansas, said, "I should think aiding Russia is a very doubtful proposal—I'd have to think pretty carefully before sanctioning that" he said "I don't see that the conflict enhances our chances of war"

TOLD TO MARRY FRANK GIRLS

BOSTON—(U.P.)—Dr. Robert Russell Wicks, dean of Princeton university's chapel, advises theological students to "marry a wife who will tell you what she really thinks of your sermons"

He told students of Boston university School of Theology they should pick women who don't worship them as gods in the pulpit. If you can afford it, Dr Wicks said, "have five children who honestly object to being called minister's children and who will bring you first-hand information of what the young people think of you."

Mary Louise Upsets Conn More Than Louis Did

After handsome Billy Conn lost his bout with Joe Louis for the world's heavyweight title, he knew he had been through a fight—but that was just the beginning! Since the fight, he has been the quarry in a chase across Pennsylvania by newsmen, who sought to determine whether he actually is going to marry Mary Louise Smith, 18-year-old daughter of a former big league baseball player, as was announced prior to the meeting with Louis. Times and places for the ceremony have been reported set and then cancelled so often that reporters are beginning to despair.

—A Salt Lake City youth who had just celebrated his 20th birthday thought so, and expressed it: "Now I have to lie only one year about my age to renew my liquor permit."

But the admission fell on hostile ears. A Utah liquor commission representative overheard.

Today the loquacious youth no longer has his liquor permit and is under a suspended jail sentence.

TORTILLAS KEEP AWAY RICKETS

NEW ORLEANS—(U.P.)—Tortillas are the food preventing rickets among the people of Mexico, Dr. Juan Faril of the Mexico City General hospital, said when he arrived here to attend the convention of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons.

"So long as Mexicans continue to eat their tortillas, we don't have to worry about rickets," Faril said.

"This is because the Mexicans, from the time of the Aztecs,, have used lime in grinding their corn meal. And lime is a perfect anti-richitic."

Faril said that the lime was used as an expedient to the grinding, and was not devised as a health aid.

ELIGIBLE YOUTH OFF TO ARMY

ROBERTS, Mont.—(U.P.)—Women seeking husbands should avoid this town.

Uncle Sam has called all the eligible young men. Roberts counted 400 inhabitants in the last census yet every man eligible for military service either has enlisted or has been drafted.

John R. Sparks, recruiting sergeant for the district, said 90 per cent of the young men signed up for three-year enlistments and the remaining 10 per cent were drafted.
